That West Virginia deputy-sheriff aged 14 would be just the right nition of the law to put on the trail of this bottle-toting Virginia infant.

It'll be highly interesting to note whether Representative Tinkham can muster a majority in the House for his bill to prohibit dry-talking members from having their whistles wetted by the fees of the Anti-Saloon League.

Mustapha Kemal's divorced wife is back in Constantinople with her mouth sealed, so it is apparent that the feminist movement in Turkey hasn't yet progressed to the point where it gives a woman the last word.

When "Freedom from her mountain height unfurled her standard to the air" she made no banner for pacifists and defeatists, but a glorious standard whose color could be freshened when need be, as Woodrow Wilson once declared, by the blood of liberty. Representative O'Phaw, of Georgia, delivers another little talk on law enforcement under the well-known fact Southern impression that the Constitution has only one amendment.

Well, well, here is a Monday morning novelty worthy of a scare head on the front page—Sunday joy-riders are injured when their horse and buggy are thrown over a cliff. So, then, there is one left!

It is like the conceit of youth for a modern flapper to think that her sheik was the original one-arm driver.

Washington clergymen rally to the defense of modern youth, who really need none—the difference between spooning in a buggy and necking in a parked car is a matter of transportation, not character. As Kipling says: "How very little since things was made, Anything alters in any one's trade."

Stephane Lausanne urges quick action by France on the ratification of the debt settlement, but it is hard for one editor to undo the mischief of a whole passel of demagogic politicians.

Child prodigies on The Post's Radio Hour tonight—and we don't mean that Virginia baby with the bottle, or the infantile deputy sheriff, or the 14-year-old feminine revolutist, either. This is the age of youth, 7 to 70, inclusive.

AMERICAN INDUSTRY SETS GREAT RECORD IN PAST 6 MONTHS

June to January Increase Eclipses 1925 in Many Lines.

SLUMP PREDICTIONS FADE BEFORE BOOMS

Optimistic Reports Cover Operations in 30 Major Industrial Fields.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, Jr.

American industry has passed through the most prosperous January to June six months ever recorded. The brilliant records of the first half of 1926 have been eclipsed in many lines. Prophets of a business slump have been utterly discredited by the record of performance now reaching its close. More money has been earned, more wages paid out, more business done on the face of preliminary findings of more than 30 major industries than at any time for the same period in the past.

Those who predicted in the early months of the year that the climax of America's great business and industrial boom had passed, are now doing business on a different basis. They are now forecasting the rival of the slump some time during the last half of the year. While business for generations has slowed down a bit during the playtime of summer and doubtless will abate its record pace during this year's vacation period there appears at the moment nothing more to warrant a business slump between July and December than there appeared last New Year's to warrant it in the first half of the year.

The railroads, doing a business in excess of $6,000,000,000 a year, anticipate no such slump. Less than a month ago the nation's biggest railroads sent their directing heads to Chicago to plan, in the official language of their association, "to handle this fall, without transportation interruption what is expected to be the heaviest freight traffic ever offered them."

Auto Dealers Optimistic. The automobile producers, fresh from the highest five-month output in their somewhat hectic history, are using their plans on making 1926 the banner year to date of the industry. June, July and August buying which always recedes from the scramble to purchase in the spring, is meeting their full expectations. It will be stimulated in all likelihood by lower

Member of 1 Family in 36 On Average, Hit by Auto

Special to The Washington Post. New York, June 13.—Some member of your family has one chance in 36 of being killed or injured by an automobile this year. That is the risk indicated by figures on last year's motor accidents, gathered by the National Safety Council and just made public through the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters.

Persons killed by automobiles in the United States in 1925 numbered 22,500. At an estimate of 30 injured for each fatality, the number hurt was 675,000, making the total casualties 697,500. The one-in-thirty-six ratio is given on the basis of 25,000,000 families in the United States.

Those killed in 1925 numbered 2,200 more than in 1924. The automobile death rate increased to 17.2 per 100,000 in 1925. It was 15.7 in 1924 and 14.9 in 1923.

VIRGINIA FARMER KILLS WORKER; SHOTS CHILD

William Whirley Sought by a Posse After the Death of Archie Aremel.

BERRYVILLE SENSATION

Special to The Washington Post. Berryville, Va., June 13.—Archie Aremel, 35 years old, a farm hand, was shot and killed today by William Whirley, a farmer, who is now being sought by a posse. The shooting took place on a farm near Berryville. Whirley, who is 50 years old and 6 feet 4 inches in height, had always been known as a "substantial" citizen. Whirley operates a 300-acre farm about two miles from this town. Aremel was his hired hand. It was in front of the house on the farm that the murder took place last night.

Yesterday afternoon, Whirley and Aremel had a furious fight, which is said to have started when Aremel resented Whirley's applying an epithet to Mrs. Aremel. Later in the day the Aremels and their four children drove into this town. Upon their return to the farm, Aremel got out of the machine to turn on the lights in the house. Whirley is alleged to have been hiding on the porch. As Aremel walked toward the house, Whirley is said to have fired at him with a double-barreled shotgun.

CONGRESS TO QUIT BY END OF MONTH. PARTY LEADERS SAY

Senate Puts Limitation on Farmers' Relief Bill Tomorrow.

DILL RADIO MEASURE IS NEXT FOR ACTION

House Still Has Two Election Contests to Settle Before Adjournment.

(By the Associated Press.)

Adjournment of Congress by the end of this month was freely predicted yesterday by the party leaders in the two houses. With the fate of farm relief legislation likely to be decided this week and the French debt settlement put into the distant future, the leaders see nothing to keep Congress here.

Limitation of debate on the farm bill in the Senate will become effective tomorrow, with expectations of a vote not later than Thursday. Defeat of the pending bill is forecast despite the efforts being made to modify its provisions.

After the vote on farm relief, the Senate probably will take up the Dill radio bill with a view to action early next week. That will about clear the Senate calendar except for the rivers and harbors bill which the commerce committee is expected to report early in the week.

A determined fight on a number of provisions of the waterway bill is threatened and whether a vote can be forced is regarded now as somewhat doubtful.

Upon reconvening Tuesday after an extended lay-off, the House will dispose of a couple of election contests and then turn its attention to a number of minor measures while waiting for the appropriations committee to bring out the final deficiency bill.

Crowd of 500,000 Waits in Streets to Honor Papal Legate.

APOSTOLIC BLESSING GIVEN IN CATHEDRAL

Elaborate Procession Is Held by Military and Civilian Units Before Rites.

New York, June 13 (By A. P.).—

With all the pomp and color of the Catholic Church, New York today paid formal and reverent tribute to eight of the nine cardinals within its diocese.

A procession witnessed by 500,000 persons began the formal reception to the prince of the church. Hundreds knelt in Fifth avenue to receive the blessing of Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, who rode at the end of the procession.

As the parade turned down Madison avenue to St. Patrick's cathedral, Cardinal Hayes of New York and six visiting cardinals and their staffs, who had acted as a reviewing party on an embarkment in the rear of the cathedral, marched with the procession to the front and into the cathedral.

Cardinals Enter Church

Preceded by servers, the eight cardinals in their scarlet robes, followed by retinue in purple gowns, marched down the main aisle of the crowded cathedral under flags of the United States and of the Pope and an arch of swords. They took their places within the altar rail, the papal legate occupying the throne, Cardinal Hayes taking his seat with the other princes on the improvised thrones opposite.

Facing Cardinal Bonzano were Cardinal Reig Y Casanova of Spain; Cardinal Csernoch, archbishop of Stringonia and primate of Hungary; Cardinal Piff, canon regular of the Lateran and archbishop of Vienna; Cardinal DuBois, archbishop of Paris; Cardinal Charost, archbishop of Rennes; Cardinal O'Donnell, archbishop of Armagh and primate of Ireland, and Cardinal Hayes. Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, and Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, who had been expected, did not arrive for the service.

Pope's Legate Called Self Protestant, Says Mexico

Consul General in New York Defies Bishop Caruana to Explain—Prelate Denies Telling Creed and Repudiates Alleged Signature.

New York, June 13 (By A. P.).—Consul General Elias of Mexico, in a formal statement issued today, charged that Mgr. Caruana bishop of Porto Rico and the West Indies and papal delegate to Mexico, declared himself a "Protestant" when he entered the Nuevo Laredo immigration gate last March.

With the statement, the consul general issued alleged photostats of the declaration of the prelate, who subsequently was expelled by the Mexican government. They purport to show that Bishop Caruana also asserted he went to Mexico only as a "tourist," described his occupation as "teacher" (professor) and averred that English was the only language with which he was familiar.

Caruana said tonight that his declaration to the immigration inspector at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, on March 4 had been filled out by the inspector, who asked questions and wrote in the answers. He denied that the signature on the declaration was his. He said he supplied answers to all questions put

PLASTER JINX STILL FOLLOWS PRESIDENT

Coolidge Congregation Moves to Theater, Where Loose Material Again Falls.

SERVICES NOT HALTED

(By Associated Press.) Falling plaster and the threat of it appear to be accompanying President Coolidge these days whether he is in the White House, at church or in a motion picture theater.

Mr. Coolidge, who will vacate the executive mansion for a time next year while its weakening roof is repaired, and who, with other members of the First Congregational church, is kept out of that building because its plaster is falling, attended church services in a theater yesterday, and more plaster fell.

Unlike the debris which fell in the church recently and knocked a woman unconscious, the piece that dropped yesterday was small and it landed in an uncoupled box 100 feet from the President and Mrs. Coolidge. It occasioned no interruption in the services. The plaster broke away from a section of the wall where alterations have been in progress.

FILIPINOS ANGERED BY THE BACON BILL

Denounce Plan for Separate Mindanao Government as an "Attack."

Manila, June 13 (By A. P.).—Filipino owned newspapers voice unanimous opposition to the bill introduced Friday by Representative Bacon, of New York, which would establish a separate government for the island of Mindanao, Philippine Islands.

Editorially the Tribune says: "The Bacon bill organizing a separate government for Mindanao and Sulu, under permanent protection of the United States, if enacted into a law would kill the Filipino's faith in America."

The Philippines Herald says: "The Bacon bill is a camouflage covering the real design, which is to place Mindanao and Sulu under complete control of the rubber and other big business interests. Our people will resent Bacon's attempt as an assault upon their essence of national unity."

STARTLING REPORTS AWAITED THIS WEEK IN ELECTION INQUIRY

Senate Yet to Hear Vare on Amount It Cost Him to Win Contest.

DELIVERY OF LARGE SUMS WILL BE TOLD

New Witnesses Called as Expenditures in Campaign Reach $1,500,000.

(By the Associated Press.)

With the circle of witnesses steadily widening, Senate investigators look for more startling revelations this week in connection with the lavish expenditure of money in the recent Pennsylvania Republican primary.

Another batch of subpoenas was sent out yesterday and new leads called for more witnesses were expected to be developed by a number of those summoned. Every vista opened is to be followed as far as possible.

Several of the principals in the primary are yet to be heard, among them Representative William S. Vare, who bowed over Senator Pepper and Gov. Pinchot in the race for the senatorial nomination. Senator Pepper also is to be recalled.

Among those summoned yesterday were Thomas Watson, of Philadelphia, State-wide treasurer for the Vare-Bidleman-James, Woodward coalition ticket, and his son Thomas Watson, Jr., who the testimony has been, delivered large sums to Edward N. Kenna, of Pittsburgh, treasurer of the Vare committee there.

To Call Managers.

Harry A. Mackey, State-wide manager for the Vare-Bidleman combination, and Representative Morin, of Pittsburgh, in charge of the Vare western headquarters, also remain to be heard.

Lieutenants in the Pepper-Fisher combination still to be examined include Eric Fisher Wood, chairman of the western committee; Frederick Rasmussen, treasurer of the Philadelphia committee; Samuel C. Jamieson, of Pittsburgh, connected with the Pennsylvania Manufacturers association; Roy E. Schooley, of Pittsburgh; John T. Flynn, of Ridgeway, Pa.; Heber Diethrich, chairman of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny county committee, and John Hollister, of Pittsburgh.

Others for whom subpoenas have been issued are Dr. L. D. Peebles, of New Kensington, Pa.; Justice Frank X. O'Connor, of Philadelphia, a candidate for Congress in the May primary, and Jacob Schorr, of Norristown, president of the Norristown Merchants association, and connected with the Young People's Political league.

Testimony of an expenditure of nearly $1,500,000 in the primary campaign and of the wholesale hiring of watchers at the polls by the Vare and Pepper organizations has aroused some Republican as well as Democratic leaders of the Senate, and already there is discussion as to what course should be pursued if Mr. Vare should be elected in November.

Vare Yet to Be Heard. Attention was called yesterday to the fact that the investigating committee had made little direct inquiry into the expenditures for the Vare-Bidleman coalition ticket as most of its time has been given over to the Pepper-Fisher expenditures.

Representative Vare has returned personal expenditures of $71,000 and testimony has been adduced showing expenditures of approximately $79,000 by the Kenna committee in Pittsburgh, more than Lieut. Williams was expected at Bolling field about 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was reported last night. The "Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung by the Washington quartet, Mary Sherier, Bowler, William F. Raymond, Miss Ritchie McLean and Fred East. They were accompanied by George Wilson.

MASS HONORS FEAST OF SAINT ANTHONY

Pontifical high mass celebrated by the Rt. Rev. John Carcaterra, Italian delegate to the Eucharistic congress at Chicago, at the Franciscan monastery yesterday as part of ceremonies in honor of the feast of St. Anthony of Padua.

HIGH MASS CELEBRATED FOR NEW YORK PILGRIMS

Italian Bishop Officiates at Service at Franciscan Monastery.

WORSHIPERS FILL CHURCH

Pontifical high mass celebrated by the Rt. Rev. John Carcaterra, a bishop of Italy, and attended by more than 500 pilgrims from New York, Brooklyn and Baltimore and the clerical delegates from France to the Eucharistic congress in Chicago, marked the observance of the feast of St. Anthony of Padua at the Franciscan monastery yesterday.

The services were attended by the largest number of persons in the history of the monastery. The huge space of the church was packed with worshipers, many of whom had to stand all through the lengthy ceremonies. The Knights of Mount St. Sepulchre, a lay organization of the Franciscan order, clad in their cream-colored cloaks, embroidered with the cross of the crusaders, acted as ushers. The knights were directed by Grand Knight Patrick Clancy.

The services began with the blessing of the relics of St. Anthony by Bishop Carcaterra, who is stopping at the monastery until Thursday, when he will go to the eucharistic congress in Chicago. The blessing of the relics is an ancient custom and the blessed relics are credited with miraculous powers through the intercession of St. Anthony, who is the patron saint of missions. The relics are symbolic of the pure and innocent life of St. Anthony, who is accredited with the performance of many miracles.

After the relics were blessed, they were carried in an impressive procession through the church by the monks and friars clad in their picturesque habits. The Knights of Mount St. Sepulchre also marched in the procession. The relics were distributed among the worshipers to be kept as sacramentals of the church.

Following the procession the pontifical high mass was celebrated by Bishop Carcaterra, who is a member of the Friars minor branch of the Franciscan order. The Rev. Regis, of the Capuchin branch, and the Rev. Raphael, of the conventual branch, assisted in saying the mass. The deacon and subdeacon, the master of ceremonies, and the servers were all members of the

Tiny Girl Dodges Police, Gets Legate's Blessing

New York, June 13.—The benediction of Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, was demonstrated when the parade was halted briefly at Madison avenue and Forty-seventh street.

An awed little girl of about 5 years, ducked under the outstretched arms of a big policeman and ran to the side of the cardinal's car, then stepped on the running board. She held out a long-stemmed white rose. "Mamma is sick," she said in a shaky voice, "and she said your blessing would help her. Will you bless me, father, so I can take it to mamma and make her well?"

Cardinal Bonzano leaned over the side of the car and patted her head. A policeman who had started to rush the child back to the curb stopped short. "Bless you, my dear little child," he said, "and bless your good mother."

monastery community. The monastery choir chanted the responses. The sermon was preached by the Rev. McGee, superior of the monastery. He told the story of the life of St. Anthony and of his miracles and holiness and held the saint before the congregation as an example to be followed in everyday life.

Condemning removal of colored employees in disproportionate numbers from the office of the register of the Treasury, a resolution offered by Emma Merck Holcomb, at a meeting of the Women's Republican Political Study club, held at the Phyllis Wheatley Young Women's Christian association, was unanimously passed. The principal speaker was Neval H. Thomas, president of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He urged members of the club to aggressive action in conserving racial rights through action in the courts. A committee was appointed to take up with Senator W. M. Butler, chairman of the Republican national committee, the interracial situation in the office of the register.

Other speakers were Robert J. Nelson, of Delaware, Mrs. Estelle Gaskill of Detroit, and Miss Jennie Bush, of Mechanicsburg, Pa. A musical and literary program was furnished by Mrs. William A. Lew and Mrs. Rebecca Haynes. Miss Jeanette Carter presided.

UPSHAW SAYS DRYS WAGING GREAT FIGHT

Georgian Tells Mount Vernon Congregation Worst Foe Is Heedless Friend.

The drys are fighting "the greatest moral battle any nation has ever known," Representative William D. Upshaw, of Georgia, told members of the Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South, at the annual good citizenship and law enforcement rally in the church last night. Senator Wadsworth, of New York, is inconsistent in "his moral and political folly," he avowed. He bitterly assailed Representative John Phelan, of Maryland. Wet organizations came in for several broadsides in his speech. One of the most dangerous leaders in public life, he said, is "that man who claims to be a friend of prohibition and shuts his eyes to the insidious propaganda and scheming activities of the defeated, but still defiant wets." The Rev. W. A. Lambeth, D. D., pastor, introduced Mr. Upshaw.

Rev. John W. Dowling Guest at a Musicales Given by Children.

3 EARS AT HOLY NAME

A thirtieth anniversary of the oration to the priesthood of the Rev. John W. Dowling, pastor of the Holy Name church, Eleventh and K street northeast, was celebrated at the church yesterday with a musicale presented by the pupils of the Holy Name school.

Aut 20 girls and eight boys appeared in the musicale, and a number of novel scenes. Conspicuous among these was the "Ten Sunflowers," ten small girls dressed as sunflowers. A brief play was given by the pupils, which followed was "The Japanese Umbrella" and "The Happy Gypsies."

A musicale was presented under the direction of the sisters of the school, and was supervised by Mother Superior Deo Data. Her Dowling was ordained a priest in Baltimore, and served respectively three and a half years at Seaside, Md., two years at St. John church in Baltimore, two years at St. Peter's church in Washington, and for the last three years at the Holy Name church.

Among those taking part were: Louise Irish, Irene McNamara, Catherine Neal, Josephine Brenahan, Mary Dowling, Ellen Jamieson, Margaret Kerr, Mary Flynn, Joseph Whit Francis Jordan, Martin Wilbur, Elizabeth Collins, Mary Grace Rhoads, Eileen Mayhew, Peggy Webb, Elea Koller, Mary Carlin, Mary, Frank Burns, Margaret Atchey, Catherine Pitts, Margaret Stain, Mary Fitzgerald, Olivia Clear, Mary McAllister, Catherine Casey, Ethel Koch, Dorothy Glebel, Elizabeth Collins and Francis Nelson.

REFUSAL TO DONATE FORTS IS EXPLAINED

Secretary Davis Tells Park Commission That Department Needs Money.

Defending his stand in refusing to donate Fort Washington and Fort Mifflin, Va., to the National Capital park and planning commission in order to provide parks for the District of Columbia, Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis, in a letter to Charles Moore, of the fine arts commission, yesterday pointed out that the War Department needs the money badly to relieve "distressing housing conditions which now exist in the army," that it would be an injustice to give the forts away.

The forts, which were originally installed for the protection of Washington, were abandoned recently when they were found to be obsolete for defense purposes. The forts will be sold for whatever sum can be realized, Secretary Davis said.

Secretary Davis in his letter pointed out that since the world war a greater part of the regular army, through reasons of economy, has been forced to live in war-time cantonments, hastily erected for temporary use and which are now almost uninhabitable. He added, however, that the forts would be turned over to the National Capital park commission if the War Department can be suitably recompensed.

Wilson M. E. Church To Give Lawn Fete

A lawn fete will be given tomorrow and Wednesday nights at the Wilson Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, 722 Eleventh street southeast, by the official board of the church in order to collect funds for the coming year's budget church expenses. An effort will be made to raise $300. There will be seven departments, including a "country store." Lester Engel will be chairman. He will be assisted by Mrs. J. H. Allen, Miss Addie Wedding, Mrs. Trueman, Jacob Glassmeyer, Mrs. John Kite, Harry King and Mrs. Percy Allen.

COOLIDGE WILL URGE CUT IN DEPARTMENTS

President Will Request Heads to Reduce Personnel to Offset Deficit.

CONFERENCE ON JUNE 21

(By the Associated Press.)
President Coolidge will demand some reductions in the cost of government administration to offset increased expenses necessary next year for public improvements. In his address to department heads at the semi-annual meeting of the Business Organization of the Government called yesterday for June 21.

With the aid of Director Lord of the budget, the President has mapped out a fiscal program for next year whereby he plans to avert a Treasury deficit which he has feared would be in sight. Reductions in personnel offers the means of offsetting the increased government expenses brought about by the public buildings program and proposed river and harbor improvements. Mr. Coolidge believes. These reductions can be accomplished, he is convinced, by increased efficiency in the departments.

Little, if any, cut in the general expense of the government for the next fiscal year, beginning July 1, is in sight, however, and the President will make no promise in this discussion of the fiscal program of another immediate tax reduction. The addresses of both Mr. Coolidge and Director Lord will be broadcast by radio through twelve stations.

Marines Took Auto, Man Informs Police

John R. Thomas, 612 1/2 Park road northwest, did not fare so well yesterday in the role of the "good Samaritan." Thomas told police that while he was driving to this city from Alexandria he met two machines walking along the road and offered them a lift. The three were driving along M street between First and New York avenue northwest, when they saw a horse-drawn rig, and ran down M street.

Thomas stopped his car and ran to help in rounding up the runaway. After the horse was caught two blocks away, Thomas returned to the spot where he left his car to discover that the marines and automobile were missing.

Young Woman Takes Poison by Accident

Suffering from poison said to have been self-administered accidentally, Mrs. D. A. Clatterbuck, 23 years old, 607 Sixth street northwest, was taken to Casualty hospital yesterday after her husband summoned police from the Sixth precinct.

Although her condition was critical when brought to the hospital, speedy medical aid administered by Dr. Joseph J. Larkin probably was the means of saving her life. Neither she nor her husband, police say, would comment on her case, other than to say it was an accident.

Store Entered, Cigars Taken

Isadore Isenberg, proprietor of a store at 1651 Eleventh street northwest, reported to the police that his store was broken into during the night and a box of cigars and $10 stolen.

MEASURE PROPOSED TO CUT SPEECH FEES

Members of Congress Would Lose Pay for Speaking on Legislation.

DRY LEAGUE CRITICIZED

(By the Associated Press.)
Members of Congress would be prohibited from accepting fees for making speeches on any legislation pending in Congress, or expected to be presented to Congress in the immediate future, under a bill drafted by Representative Tinkham (Republican, Massachusetts), which he said yesterday would be introduced Tuesday.

The proposed measure is made necessary, he said, because of the "ugly exposure and admission that members of Congress have been systematically and clandestinely given money or fees from the secret funds of the ecclesiastical and political organization known as the Antislavery league."

"The acceptance by legislators of fees from any organization instigating legislation," Tinkham continued, "is so vicious that by common consent all honest men condemn it. It takes from the legislator his independent character and his impartial action, and it takes away the moral sanction behind all law. Practices of this character, instead of wrapping legislative action with probity, expose it to contempt and scorn. It is a corrupt method of procedure."

"No member of Congress should be upon the payroll of any organization seeking legislation or be its occasional or constant paid propagandist. The payment of any money for any purpose to members of Congress by the Antislavery league is doubly repugnant because this detestable organization is continually instigating legislation not merely against property rights, but against the liberty of the individual. This unscrupulous practice is not only dishonorable, but it is odious and offensive to public ethics."

Maryland Parish Observes Anniversary

The 222d anniversary of Queen Anne's parish was observed yesterday in St. Barnabas' Episcopal church, Md. The Rev. Henry C. Goodman is rector of the parish. The Rev. Charles T. Warner, rector of St. Alban's church, and the Rev. E. P. Wroth, rector of Christ church, Georgetown, were the principal speakers.

The Church of England was established in the Colony of Maryland in 1632, following the accession of King William and Queen Mary to the throne. Queen Anne's parish was created in 1704, two years after the coronation of Queen Anne.

The southern home and the Southern Railway

IT is for the creation and preservation of the home that the world's work goes on. And when it is well done and prosperous times come, it is the home that benefits most. Besides being the foundation of the State, the home is the ALL of our civilization.

A myriad of life's necessities—food, clothing and household goods—passes over the rails of the Southern Railway System and into homes every day. And every day thousands of freight cars loaded with products from the South are carried along the rails of the Southern, bound for distant markets. Thus the South grows and develops.

Carrying the world's goods to the South, and the South's goods to the world, day in and day out, is the service of the Southern Railway System to the Southern home. This regular, dependable and economical transportation is the aim and the test of good railroad service.

RIOTING OF CZECH PARLIAMENT LEADS TO STREET FIGHTS

Police Fire Upon Throats: Wound 5, at Least, of Disturbers.

GRAIN TARIFF BILL IS PASSED AMID UPROAR

Communists Wreck Desks and Hurl Chairs; Premier Hooted and Jeered.

(Special Cable Dispatch.) Prague, June 13.—Rioting was resumed in parliament yesterday. It spread into the streets. Shots were fired by the police and at least five persons were wounded. The recent disgraceful conduct of the Czechoslovakian parliament has been the subject of much bitter comment, but the newest scenes surpassed any of the previous ones. The last government fell on the question of the grain tariffs and the present one is likely to fall on the same issue. After a 22-hour sitting, the grain tariff bill passed the first reading amid pandemonium yesterday. Only after communist obstruction was suddenly ended at the command of the leader, M. Benisek, was it possible to see the terrible wreckage which littered the parliament floor.

Wreckage Is Revealed. The communists had broken desks to pieces. They had destroyed a whole bench belonging to the people's party and the minister's bench showing three large holes where seats had been torn out. Mountains of pamphlets and papers covered the floors. The communist leader, M. Benisek, hurled the premier's chair to the middle of the floor from the dais.

After reconvening yesterday, the social democrats called out: "This is a scandal which has put the whole country in an uproar and the premier sleeps." Premier Benisek, when he finally appeared, was greeted with hoots and yells of opposition. He explained that demonstrators were instructed not to march in the streets in the neighborhood of the parliament.

Customs Men, on Ship, Shovel Coal; Find Liquor

Philadelphia, June 13 (By A. P.).—Eight customs officials turned coal heavers today and for several hours toiled in the bunkers of the British steamer Exeter City. Twelve cases of whisky were their reward. Accompanied by Dr. W. W. Chapman, chief medical inspector, the officials had gone aboard to examine the cargo. Everything was all right until they entered the bunkers and began jabbing into the piles of coal with long rods. Dr. Chapman's rod struck a suspicious object. The customs officials asked the captain to order his crew to shovel away the coal. The request was refused and the customs men pitched in.

The heat was almost unbearable. Coal dust rose thick. Hats were discarded, then coats and ties and in some cases shirts. When the task was finished Capt. Reece, master of the vessel, was summoned before the collector of the port tomorrow.

With the exception of the Democrats, who are neutral, all the bourgeois parties are solidly arrayed against confiscation without indemnification and have instructed their followers to remain away from the polls.

The socialists and communists and their allied trade unions succeeded in mobilizing 125,000,000 signatures last March in favor of the referendum, but unless this total is augmented by 8,000,000 new supporters when the secret balloting is carried out Sunday, the measure will be defeated.

As half the total number of qualified voters in Germany must sanction its adoption for it involves a constitutional amendment. Qualified voters to the number of 39,400,000 were registered for the presidential election of April 28, 1925.

Radicals Unite Support. The socialists and communists are using their powerful political organizations in a combined effort to rouse proletarian sentiment, and to this extent the "white collar" electorate views the contest as a battle between the bourgeoisie and the proletariat.

The radicals, liberally equipped with funds, in addition to having the benefit of inflexible party discipline, have levied an assessment of about 12 cents per capita on their following of 10,000,000. They will devote the coming week to demonstrations throughout Germany, under the slogan "not a cent for princes."

The opponents of the proposed confiscation are expected to heed the instructions of the respective parties to abstain from voting. Opposing outdoor meetings in various sections of Berlin today passed quietly.

The managers for the Hohenzollern and allied interests are making use of posters, in which portraits of the great elector, Frederick William, Frederick II, nicknamed "The Great," and William I, gaze appealingly at passers-by as though to say "Is this your gratitude?"

Hindenburg to Be Attacked. Extracts from President von Hindenburg's hotly debated letter to Count Friedrich von Loebel, the monarchist leader, which denounced any attempt at confiscation, also are being displayed, although the president for the time being is eliminated from the heat of the campaign, and will only be called upon to take an active hand in the situation if the balloting next week returns the requisite majority approving unconstitutional seizure of the princely properties. He will then be confronted with the choice between signing the measure or obtaining its execution or retiring from office.

Even if the measure fails to pass, the socialists are determined to precipitate a "presidential crisis" because of Von Hindenburg's letter. Extracts from the letter are being featured in current news reels, although a film entitled "Not a Penny for Princes," has been prohibited by the moving picture censors.

As the situation presents itself to the reichstag party leaders eight days before the balloting, the prevailing opinion is that only huge reinforcements of silent workers or voters from the ranks of the nominal stay-at-homes can save the day for the unrelenting and uncompromising foes of a monarchy, although it is emphasized that the issue of a republic versus a monarchy is not up for decision.

CONFISCATION TO FAIL, IN OBSERVERS' BELIEF

20,000,000 Votes Needed to Order Taking of the Royal Property.

Berlin, June 13 (By A. P.).—Only lukewarm interest thus far is being manifested in the balloting on Sunday next, June 20, on the question of legalizing through constitutional amendment outright confiscation of the property of former German rulers. The predictions tonight are that the measure will fail to receive the requisite affirmative support of 20,000,000 voters.

With the exception of the Democrats, who are neutral, all the bourgeois parties are solidly arrayed against confiscation without indemnification and have instructed their followers to remain away from the polls.

8 CARDINALS UNITE AT SINGLE SERVICE

Cardinal Bonzano then bestowed upon the worshippers the special blessing of the Pope. "The holy father," the papal legate said, "has been pleased to send me as his representative to the Eucharistic congress, an event which marks an epoch in the history of religion in America. Knowing as I do your earnest devotion to our Lord in the sacrament of His love, I am certain that you will have your share, an abundant share, in the blessings that will flow from the public solemnity in honor of the Eucharistic King."

"Your welcome to me here upon the soil of the new world assures me of a successful journey in the fulfillment of my mission. It will give genuine pleasure to the holy father. In the name of the princes of the church here present and in my own I thank you most sincerely and invoke upon you and yours the favor of the traces of our Lord, Jesus Christ, whose delights are to be with the children of man and in anticipation of the heavenly favors I am happy now to bestow upon you the holy father's special blessing."

Welcomes Old Friend. In extending greetings to Cardinal Bonzano on the part of the Catholic Church of America, Cardinal Hayes gave thanks that a papal legate had been sent "whom we know well, one we learned to honor and love ten long years ago, when at Washington, as an apostolic delegate."

"We rejoice," the New York cardinal said, "that we have again in our midst a friend who in his day served America by his wisdom, by his loyalty, by his prayers, by the very benediction of his life."

"It is for us all an occasion of great thanksgiving to Almighty God that we are on the eve of the great Eucharistic congress soon to take place in the city of Chicago. A sister diocese and a sister city, while it is not our honor and privilege for the great and noble Eucharistic congress to take place in New York, at the same time it is our honor and privilege to receive at the gateway of America the legate of his holiness when he stepped ashore on American soil."

The beginning of the services, Martin Conboy, president of the Catholic club of the City of New York, welcomed Cardinal Bonzano on behalf of the Catholic laity of the city.

Legate Joins Procession. The procession which preceded the services formed on Madison avenue and passed before the eight cardinals seated on an embankment in the rear of the cathedral and Cardinals Bonzano and Hayes standing on the steps of the archiepiscopal palace. The papal legate then joined the procession, entered an automobile bearing the flags of the United States and of the Pope.

As the procession swung into Fifth avenue, the famous old Sixty-sixth street, in which portraits of the great elector, Frederick William, Frederick II, nicknamed "The Great," and William I, gaze appealingly at passers-by as though to say "Is this your gratitude?"

PERU REJECTS LATEST TACNA-ARICA SOLUTION

Chile's Counter-Proposal to Kellogg's Plan Is Held Unsatisfactory.

DECISIVE ACTION TODAY

Lima, Peru, June 13 (By A. P.).—The Peruvian government has rejected the latest formula presented by Chile for a settlement of the Tacna and Arica territorial dispute. The Associated Press correspondent was informed to this effect by authoritative sources.

Arica, Chile, June 13 (By A. P.).—A meeting of the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission will be held tomorrow at the request of the Chilean delegation, and Gen. Lassiter's motion declaring that it is impossible to carry out the plebiscite will be debated.

The Chileans have received final instructions from Santiago. What these instructions are has not been divulged, but one Chilean official ventured to say that probably Monday's meeting would be a decisive one. If a majority of the commission is of the opinion that a plebiscite is impossible, he argued, then it was the duty of all to end the matter.

It is admitted on all sides that the dispersal of the plebiscite personnel can not be delayed long, as the Lassiter motion is certain to be voted soon, after which the Americans will begin their withdrawal, even should the Chileans appeal to the arbitrator. Twelve Americans who had been employed on various boards, left here for the North this morning.

The Chilean proposal for settlement of the Tacna and Arica territorial dispute was one of the steps in the recently inaugurated direct diplomatic negotiations between Chile and Peru. It was made as a counter-proposal to a plan suggested by Secretary Kellogg, who tendered his good offices in the direct negotiations, and was understood to have been combined a proposal for division of the disputed territory. The dividing line, it was understood, would, under the Chilean proposal, run north of Arica with the smaller portion being ceded to Peru.

RATIFY DEBT AGREEMENT, LAUSANNE WARNS PARIS

Delay in Action Damaging to French Material and Moral Credit, Is View.

FEARS CHANGES IN U. S.

Paris, June 13 (By A. P.).—The French chamber should take quick action on the Berenger-Mellon debt agreement, Stephane Lausanne editor of the Matin, insists in a front page editorial today.

"France," he says, "in the course of the centuries of her troubled history may have shown that she had faults; she never showed that she lacked courage. She ought today to have courage to say 'yes' or 'no.'"

M. Lausanne concludes by asking those who think they can do better than the ambassador Berenger has done to rise and sail for Washington; he asks those who want to let things slide to say so, and those who would prefer to let a commercial debt of 13,000,000,000 francs fall due in 1929 say so flatly.

"A man," says M. Lausanne, "six weeks ago assumed his responsibilities and with formal authorization of the government, gave his signature in France's name. Every American is sensible enough to ignore that that signature has been given. It may be disavowed or ratified, condemned or approved, but we cannot seek refuge in abstention."

The editor recalls that the United States Senate declared categorically that it would not ratify before the chamber did, and remarks that that is the same procedure carried out in all debt settlements.

"The house of commons, which glories in being the mother of parliaments," he adds, "ratified the Baldwin agreement before the American Senate did. The Belgian chamber ratified the Theunis agreement, and the Italian chamber the Volpi agreement before the American Senate."

"So long as the French chamber does not ratify the agreement, the American Senate will not ratify it, and the American Senate is up for partial reelection. It will be another Senate we will have before us in autumn."

BRUSHING ALONE WON'T SAVE YOUR TEETH

100 People Said "No" But Their Dentists Said "YES"

WE ASKED 100 persons the simple question: "Have you anything wrong with your gums?"

Each one answered "No." But their dentists told a different story. They said:

"Sixty percent of the people who come to us have gum troubles in early or advanced stages."

And the pity of it all is that most people are afraid to know the truth about their gums. They dread to think of the toothless, painful years that follow swiftly and surely in the wake of neglected gums.

What About Your Gums? You may have teeth that seem sound and give no pain. You may use a tooth brush and dentifrice daily, yet unless your gums are free of germ-laden mucus and have good healthy blood circulating through their tissues, some insidious mouth disorder may be pouring poison into your system.

The Advice You Should Follow For years dentists have recommended daily massage (rubbing) of the gums with the finger. But, until recently, massage was never 100% efficient because of the slippery, germ-laden coating on the gums called mucus. Now GUM RUB, a new and totally different, scientific preparation perfected by an eminent dental authority, makes it possible to remove every trace of this germ-carrying mucus.

Having first thoroughly cleansed your gums, GUM RUB then starts its real work of causing friction between the gums and the finger. After a few minutes of rubbing with GUM RUB, a perfectly natural circulation of healthy blood sets up in your gum tissues.

Begin Using Gum Rub Today Regardless of the condition of your gums and mouth, you should use GUM RUB every time you brush your teeth. It is pleasant to the taste, and makes and keeps your gums and mouth healthy. The quick results with GUM RUB are amazing and permanent. GUM RUB aids Nature without resort to dangerous medication, hence its effectiveness is lasting.

Do you wear a plate? GUM RUB will prove a blessing. Try it today. Write for your copy of our new book, "The Real Secret of a Healthy Mouth."

ST. GABRIEL PUPILS AWARDED DIPLOMAS AT COMMENCEMENT

Bishop Thomas J. Shahan

Music and Special Services
Features of Closing Exercises of School.

The first commencement exercises of St. Gabriel's parochial school were held last night at St. Gabriel's Catholic church. Certificates of completion of the eighth grade were presented to 24 children by the Rev. Thomas J. Shahan, rector of the Catholic university.

Following a short musical program the graduates were presented by the Rev. John M. McNamara, pastor of the church, for their certificates. Benediction of the blessed sacrament was then given by the bishop. Sacred hymns in Latin were sung during the benediction and at the close of the service.

Bishop addresses Pupils.
Bishop Shahan told the children that they should not forget the lessons taught them by the sisters of the school, and that they should always live up to the motto of their class. "Scatter Seeds of Gladness Everywhere." He spoke of the advantages of having parochial school education and traced progress of the parochial school from its inception, while it was still a youth to the present time, when a parochial school is a part of almost every Catholic church.

Ceremonies Planned For July 5 Exercises

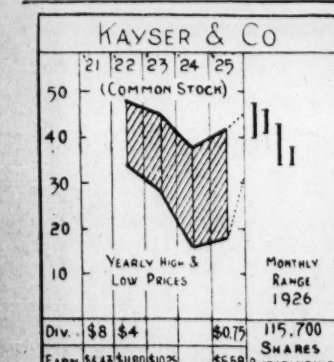

Imposing ceremonies are being planned for the District of Columbia celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the establishment of American independence, which will be held on the east front of the Capitol Monday evening, July 5.

Invitations have been sent by the committee on arrangements to cabinet members, the District commissioners and other prominent officials. A chorus of 1,000 voices is being rehearsed for the event, under the auspices of the Community center department of the local public schools. Marie Moore Forrest is directing the rehearsal.

What's Behind Your Stock

Julius Kayser & Co.

Julius Kayser & Co. is a large manufacturer of silk, woolen and fabric gloves, silk and knit hosiery, silk and cotton underwear and other allied products. In addition to its manufacturing activities, the company has recently opened its first retail store in New York City. This store, which is the first of several to be opened in the near future, is expected to add materially to the company's sales value, besides acting as an advertising medium.

Julius Kayser & Co. has done a very excellent business this spring, sales being more than 50 per cent ahead of last year, while incoming orders for fall are 25 per cent in excess of last year's fall orders. Earnings of the company in 1925 amounted to $5.58 per share on the common stock and prospects are such that this figure will be greatly bettered in 1926, since net earnings during the first six months of the present fiscal year, which ends in August, were equal to approximately $5 a share on the common stock after preferred dividend payments. Incidentally, dividends have been paid on the preferred stock at the rate of $5 per share per year since 1922. A quarterly dividend at the rate of $3 per share per year was paid on the common stock in November, 1925.

"I am now sending you herewith a photostatic copy of his declarations made before the Mexican immigration authorities at Nueva Laredo, Mexico, on March 4, when entering Mexico."

"In addition to confirming his own admission that he, the apostolic delegate of the Pope and the bishop of Porto Rico and West Indies, told the Mexican authorities he was a 'teacher,' this declaration shows that he went much further than he admitted in his statement published throughout the United States. When asked the question, 'do you come as a tourist or on business,' the declaration shows that the bishop of Porto Rico, who has stated since he left Mexico that he went there for the purpose of making an investigation for his holiness, Pope Pius XI, replied that he was going to Mexico just as a 'tourist.'"

"The declaration also shows that when this prelate of the church in Spain, who is a native of the country as is Porto Rico, and who is from Italian origin, was asked if he knew any other language than English, he replied 'none.' When it came to the question in the declaration as to his religious creed, the prelate of the Catholic Church and personal representative of Pope Pius XI, flatly answered 'Protestant.'"

"The facts here set forth speak for themselves. In view of the fact that no one has ever been kept out of Mexico because of his or her religion or creed, the claim of a Catholic prelate that he was a 'Protestant' is something that Monsignor and Bishop Caruana will have to explain himself. But we think the answers set forth in the immigration declaration do explain the failure up to the present time of the intention announced by Bishop Caruana to return to the United States, upon his return to the United States, to make further declarations regarding his expulsion from Mexico."

SURVEY REPORT SHOWS SHIPPING TRADE SLUMP

Pacific and Gulf Coast Commerce Is Said to Be Falling Off.

DEFICIT ON GREAT LAKES

(By the Associated Press.)

An apparently severe decline in the ocean borne foreign trade of the Pacific and gulf coasts is shown in a cursory survey made public last night by the Shipping Board. While analysis reveals a more favorable condition than is shown by the gross volume of tonnage moved, the Shipping Board's announcement said Pacific coast shipping fell off 988,000 tons from the 1924 figure, gulf commerce fell off slightly less than 1,750,000 tons and Great Lakes commerce declined 91,000 tons.

The decline in Pacific coast tonnage was entirely due, the announcement said, to decreases in exports of grain, flour, lumber and petroleum. The petroleum decrease was caused, however, by increased shipments of refined petroleum products.

The Gulf tonnage reduction was the result of heavy declines in imports, exports generally showing increases. In the Gulf trade crude petroleum imports, chiefly from Mexico alone, fell off 2,250,000 tons, but this, the announcement said, indicated an increased use of Mid-Continent and California petroleum in Gulf refineries.

Great Lakes foreign trade showed a net deficit of 91,000 tons in 1925 over 1924. The shifts in trade included an increase of 1,120,000 tons in grains and 180,000 tons in pulpwood, the total import gain being 1,495,000 tons. This was offset, however, by a net export deficit of 1,586,000 tons, including a drop of 708,000 tons in grain and flour and 778,000 tons in coal.

ROBERT ORR HARRIS DIES AT AGE OF 71

The enforcement of the prohibition laws. He refused to resign from his office as United States attorney for Massachusetts and on December 3 of that year was removed by order of President Coolidge.

After the enactment of the national prohibition law Mr. Harris was supported by advocates of strict law enforcement for appointment to the office of United States attorney. He was appointed on April 18, 1921, serving nearly four years.

They've Saved for a Rainy Day!

SOMEBODY hundreds of years ago asked the generation of that date to save for a rainy day. That advice has been imparted through the centuries, but strange as it may seem, it has gone unheeded by the thousands.

On the other hand there are countless thousands who have profited by the sound warning: "Save for a rainy day!"

By coming to this strong Bank and starting a small Savings account and then putting aside a certain stipulated sum each pay day, it is possible to have accumulated sufficient to ward off the fears of "rainy days." Let us explain how easily this can be accomplished.

FRENCH VOICES JOIN SPANISH IN URGING KRIM BE PUNISHED

Demand Made That Alleged Cruelties to Prisoners Be Investigated.

RIFF LEADER ROBBED POOR, IT IS CHARGED

Franco-Spanish Conference on Morocco Opens in Paris This Morning.

Paris, June 13 (By A. P.).—The Franco-Spanish conference on Morocco will begin tomorrow at the Quai d'Orsay under the most favorable auspices. Gen. Jordana, Spain's chief military representative, declares an agreement "will neither be long nor difficult to realize."

The first question to be thrashed out will be the future status of the Riff territory, whether Spain intends to occupy it, or whether a sort of constabulary akin to that established in the Philippines, with native troops, will be organized to patrol the region.

The French are not exactly eager to detach any number of their native troops from this region to aid the Spanish in pacifying and keeping order in what is essentially the Spanish zone under treaty, but would not look askance at recruiting purely Riffian gendarmes trained by French and Spanish officers.

Fate of Krim Puzzles.

Perhaps the thorniest problem to be discussed is what will be done with Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian chieftain. Up to the present the French authorities have professed that he would be treated magnanimously as befitting a warrior who had battled and lost valiantly. But sections of the French press are joining the Spanish now in demanding that a strict inventory be made of Abd-el-Krim's private fortune, removed from the Riff under French protection.

They demand also that allegations of atrocities committed against Spanish prisoners be thoroughly investigated before final disposition is made of the former Emir.

Charge Embezzlement.

It is charged, among other things, that Krim appropriated sums intended for the poor and for religious and charitable works in his domain and it is contended that he must return them forthwith and also be made to atone for sufferings inflicted on prisoners, particularly officers and women.

A correspondent of the Temps says Krim's protector, France, can not be cruel, but if it wishes to keep Krim's respect, must be just, and adds, "the more rapid our justice is, the more efficacious it will be."

Lawton, Okla., June 13 (By A. P.).—More than 1,000 field artillerymen stationed at Fort Sill responded to a fire alarm at the post today and aided firemen in bringing under control a blaze which destroyed an ordnance warehouse with a loss of $500,000.

The fire was prevented from reaching nearby ordnance warehouses filled with 155 millimeter shells. Barracks of the remount station, housing 30 families, narrowly escaped. The loss was confined to field artillery gun parts, small arms and equipment.

San Pedro, Calif., June 13 (By A. P.).—Destruction by fire of their craft, the 50-ton schooner Fortuna, off the Mexican coast was reported today by ten members of a motion picture expedition which departed from this port last March to film marine life in Mexican waters off Lower California. Horse, Thrown Off Road, Hangs From Tree Top

Special to The Washington Post. Luray, Va., June 13.—A horse suspended in midair, his frantic lunging finally resulting in breaking the harness and letting him fall to the ground, 8 or 10 feet, unhurt; a young woman hurled from a buggy into the boughs of a tree, from which she climbed down to safety, while two other occupants of the buggy—Orion Atkins and a young woman—were thrown in opposite directions, alighting on their feet, are the net results of one of the narrowest escapes from death ever recorded in Rappahannock county.

The accident occurred on the Lee highway, 7 miles east of Luray, while Mr. Atkins and the two young women were passing down the east side of the Blue Ridge. When near a curve in the road, Mr. Atkins saw an automobile approaching and in passing it his buggy came so near a 30-foot embankment that the occupants, vehicle and horse tumbled over. The horse was suspended in midair by the top of the buggy becoming entangled in the limbs of a tree.

"COUNT" IS MISSING HUSBAND, SHE SAYS

Woman Causes the Arrest of Monte on Charges of Desertion.

New York, June 13 (By A. P.).—Charged with desertion by Mrs. Esther Wiseman, of Winthrop, Mass., a man claiming to be Count Paul Anatole Monte, is being held in the Richmond county jail for extradition to Massachusetts. His wife charges that he is simply Nicholas Wiseman, born in Canada.

The self-styled count, who said he was a French nobleman, was arrested a few days ago while attending a motion picture at Newport with a society girl. His arrest, however, did not become known until today. The "count" claims he is the victim of a frame-up.

Winthrop, Mass., June 13 (By A. P.).—A police inspector, with extradition papers, will leave for New York tomorrow to bring back "Count Monte" to face charges of wife desertion.

The self-styled nobleman was named by Lyndon V. Grover, wealthy shoe manufacturer, in his suit for divorce against his wife, Eleanor, about a year ago. Grover charged that the "count" was accepted by the family as a suitor to his daughter, but that his affections were extended to his wife.

The "count" testified that he was the son of the Marquis de la Fiore, of Paris. Grover's counsel brought out that a few years ago he was a salesman in one of Grover's Boston shoe stores.

Louisville, Ky., June 13 (By A. P.).—Two men died here early today of burns received when a 300-gallon still exploded, virtually destroyed one residence and damaged another, and uncovered what police called evidence of an alcohol re-distilling and moonshining plant operated on a wholesale scale.

The men, who gave their names as S. S. Scott and J. L. Anderson, were found with their clothing ablaze. Police said one of the residences contained an alcohol distilling plant and the other a moonshine outfit. The houses were connected by pipes.

TOLL OF 9 LIVES TAKEN IN 3 DAYS OF STORMS

Electrical Disturbances and High Winds Continue in the Midwest.

GROWING CROPS INJURED

Chicago, June 13 (By A. P.).—Severe electrical, wind and rain storms that for the last three days have raged through the middle West, taking a toll of nine lives and much property loss, continued with violence in many sections tonight.

In Chicago, a record rainfall of 1 inch in 15 minutes, according to the weather bureau report, accompanied by lightning, caused the death of one man, temporarily halted automobile and street car traffic and brought many fire alarms. John Capusse, 40, was struck by lightning and killed.

Des Moines, Iowa, reported the heaviest rainfall of the year yesterday, accompanied by an electrical display that brought the total deaths in Iowa to four in the last two days. Transport and communication services were hampered and growing crops were injured by the deluge.

Heavy rains were reported throughout Minnesota today and eastern Wisconsin was under a blanket of fog that near Milwaukee was so dense as to force down a flier in the recently inaugurated air mail service between Chicago and Minneapolis.

Those who died in the storms in Iowa, included Win Simpson, 16, of Osage, killed when an automobile in which she was riding skidded from the road, and William Reeder, of Minden, and John T. Walsh, Jr., of Des Moines, who met death last night when they came in contact with electric wires torn down by the storm.

More than a score of persons were injured in automobile accidents. Soud county, South Dakota, where the farmers have needed rain badly for more than a month received 2 inches of precipitation which probably will save their crops. In several sections of Nebraska, deaths of two months duration, also were broken.

Girl Fundamentalist, 14, Wins 60 to Conversion

New York, June 13 (By A. P.).—Preaching a fundamentalist religion, Uldine Mabelle Utley, 14-year-old "child evangelist," of Fresno, Calif., today brought about the conversion of 60 persons, many of them middle-aged men in the Calvary Baptist church.

"Many Americans today," she said "want to mock you when you say you believe in miracles and other fundamentals of the Scriptures. We in America need to stand up for God just as Elijah did."

A chorus, "Amen!" rose from her audience of 2,000 persons and a procession of converts came forward.

The girl will conduct "an old-fashioned soul awakening" at the church in September. The Rev. John Roach Straton, introducing her, said that "God has raised her for just this hour as a rebuke to the self-sufficiency of this age of doubt and disbelief."

TWICE CONDEMNED TO DIE, MAN IS FREED

Aubrey Lee Nickels Acquitted of Assault Charge by a Florida Jury.

Sanford, Fla., June 13 (By A. P.).—Aubrey Lee Nickels, young man of Greenwood, S. C., was found not guilty of criminal attack by a jury in judicial circuit court here last night.

Nickels fainted when the verdict was read and was carried from the room.

The verdict brought to a close one of the longest drawn out major legal fights in the history of the State.

Nickels was first convicted of attacking a young married woman of Deland, Fla., and sentenced to hang on June 21, 1922. He was granted a new trial and again found guilty on April 28, 1924. The supreme court, after a continued appeal granted a second new trial and in the spring of this year a change of venue from Volusia county was allowed.

The major battle of the third trial was waged over the admission of an alleged confession by Nickels. Claiming the confession was made under duress, Nickels later retracted it. However, it was introduced as evidence.

French Seamen Hint At Boycott of U. S.

New York, June 13 (By A. P.).—French seamen may boycott the port of New York, Capt. Ernest Maurras, commander of the French liner Paris, said today, if they are to be forced to strip for physical examination before being allowed ashore.

As the Paris sailed yesterday with a crew that had not stepped ashore because of their refusal to comply with the edict of the health officials, Capt. Maurras predicted that some of his crew would not sign on again in French pride, the crew members stated, when the order was announced Wednesday.

The various events will occupy the remainder of the week, with the mass drill, in which 5,000 are expected to participate, scheduled to take place at Churchill Downs next Saturday. The meet will be brought to a close next Sunday.

All of the participants must not only take part in the apparatus and gymnastic work, but must enter the various track and field events.

PROHIBITION AN ISSUE AT NEW JERSEY POLLS

Nearly Two-Score Republicans in Tuesday's Primary Urge Referendum.

WET OPPOSING PERKINS

Newark, N. J., June 13 (By A. P.).—Prohibition is an issue, without regard to party affiliation, for Tuesday's State primaries.

Some 30 or more of 33 Republican candidates for 40 nominations to the lower branch of the legislature have announced that they favor a State referendum on prohibition or a memorial to Congress urging modification.

In Essex county twelve Republican independents favor a referendum, and their regular opponents urge a memorial.

Democratic candidates for the assembly have little quarrel on prohibition, but the subject figures in one contest for a Democratic nomination for the State senate.

Mrs. Adeline A. Lawrence, who favors a referendum, is a candidate in Monmouth county against James A. Hendrixson of Red Bank, bone dry. Mrs. Lawrence's husband is a circuit judge.

B. Duncan McClave, modificationist, is a candidate for a Republican nomination for Congress against Representative Randolph Perkins. Liquor does not figure in several other contests in the twelve congressional districts.

BRITAIN AND THE SOVIET.

The British government has sent a sharp note to the soviet government of Russia, protesting against its attempt to interfere in British affairs by sending money to support strikes and by urging British workers to overturn the government. The soviet is reminded that in the trade treaty between the two governments it was agreed by the soviet that it would refrain from all communist propaganda against the British empire.

When this treaty was made the intent of the soviet to employ it as an enemy weapon against Britain was perfectly obvious. Lenin had often coached his followers on the subject of treaty-making as a means of breaking down governments. He and some of his gifted associates in communism proclaimed that treaties were to be observed only when they furthered the communist cause, and broken whenever their violation would embarrass the other contracting party. The pretense of maintaining diplomatic intercourse on the old theory that a solemn engagement is a matter of honor was ridiculed by Lenin and the soviet leaders.

The pressure for trade on the part of British exporters was too strong for the British government to resist. The soviet agents dangled before the Britishers tempting proposals, and in the face of repeated exposure of conspiracies against the British empire they induced the British government to make a treaty which gave the reds an opportunity to spread communism through the ranks of British labor.

One reason why the United States refused to deal with the soviet was because the soviet leaders had given advance notice that any treaty made with them would be violated if they should find it advantageous to violate it. Although there was pressure from American traders and speculators in behalf of a treaty with Russia, the United States government refused to deal with the soviet in any manner. The wisdom of this course has been abundantly proved, and is now entirely vindicated by the experience of Great Britain.

Communism is the enemy of free governments. They can not bridge the chasm between them without committing suicide. If Russia should make fair treaties and fulfill the obligations resting upon civilized governments it could not remain under the rule of communism. If other governments admit a communist government into their society they must either accept communism or throw the enemy out.

The damage done to Great Britain by the Russian soviet is incalculable. The inherent good sense of the Anglo-Saxons managed to surmount the recent attack upon the government, but the danger is not over. Communism thrives in distress and industrial depression. Until Britain has reestablished industry and readjusted its economic system it will be in danger of increasing communism. In view of the disclosure of the conspiracy in Russia, aimed at the consummation of an industrial and political revolution in Britain, it is evidently incumbent upon Britain to abrogate the treaty and deal with the reds in their true character as dangerous enemies. Free governments are inviting internal disaster when they establish relations with the Russian soviet.

Ah, well; the cheaper the car the less your headache when the locomotive wins the argument.

THE MORO PROBLEM.

Representative Bacon of New York has introduced a bill removing the Moro or Mohammedan provinces of the Philippine islands from the jurisdiction of the Philippine government and conferring upon them a separate and distinct form of administration under the direct authority of the United States.

In 1899 the Moros accepted and recognized American sovereignty, not the sovereignty of the Filipino people, says Mr. Bacon; and the Moro problem is an American, not a Filipino responsibility. The bill proposed, says Mr. Bacon, if enacted into law, will go far toward solving a serious problem affecting American sovereignty in the islands.

The bill provides for the appointment by the President of a governor, a legislative council, including three Moro members, over the Moro territory, comprising about 35 per cent of the land area of the Philippines and about 270,000 people, with full legislative powers, subject only to the limitations specified in the bill. Mr. Bacon says that this government would function without interference by the present government, which retains administration over the Christian provinces of the archipelago.

The Moros are the Mohammedan people of the islands. They constitute an entirely different people from the Christian Filipinos. They face the Malay peninsula and receive their religion and civilization from the East Indies. The treaty of 1899 between the United States and the Sultan of Sulu amounted to the assumption of protection by the United States, according to Mr. Bacon. Hence the responsibility of the United States and the bill introduced by the member from New York.

DEALING WITH CHILE.

In spite of the forbearance and abused patience of the plebiscitary commission at Arica the truth concerning Chilean interference with the Tacna-Arica plebiscite is now reaching the public. Gen. Lassiter, president of the commission, has offered a resolution declaring that a plebiscite is impossible on account of the failure of the Chilean authorities to establish conditions insuring the safety of Peruvian voters. Disorders and assaults are increasing, according to Associated Press reports, which cite specific instances of attacks upon Peruvians. Eye-witnesses are quoted as asserting that Chilean officials participated in some of these assaults.

Secretary Kellogg, in behalf of the United States, has exerted every effort to bring Chile and Peru into an agreement which would make the plebiscite unnecessary. The two countries seem to be farther apart than when the Washington negotiations began. One or the other has refused to accept proposals advanced by Mr. Kellogg. Chile's representatives have insisted that the plebiscite should be held immediately.

Chile and Peru have made only one agreement in the last 40 years. That was in the form of a protocol providing for the arbitration of the Tacna-Arica dispute by the President of the United States. The two governments agreed that if the arbitrator should decide that a plebiscite be held, he should have full power to determine the conditions thereof; and that if he should decide against a plebiscite, Chile should continue the present administration of the territory while the two governments took further steps to settle their differences.

President Coolidge therefore has solid ground upon which to proceed. He has the pledge of Chile and Peru that they will accept any conditions he may see fit to impose as requisite to the holding of a fair plebiscite. They have accepted his award and have participated in the preliminaries. The attempts of Chilean representatives to browbeat Gen. Pershing were a failure. Gen. Lassiter has adopted Gen. Pershing's policy of silence and forbearance under great provocation. American observers have carefully studied the situation and have reported that a fair plebiscite under present conditions, with the Chilean administration in control, is impossible. Gen. Lassiter has submitted a resolution to that effect. There is only one thing to be done by the arbitrator, and that is to direct the plebiscitary commission to establish the necessary conditions. Chile's civil and military administration of Tacna and Arica is the obstacle which prevents the settlement according to the agreement between Chile and Peru. This obstacle must be removed or the plebiscite must be abandoned. The arbitrator has Chile's permission to direct withdrawal of its civil and military authorities from the disputed territory if such withdrawal is deemed by him indispensable to the holding of a fair plebiscite.

The Washington negotiations prove that it is impossible for Peru and Chile to agree upon any other method of adjusting the Tacna-Arica dispute. If the plebiscite should be abandoned, it is quite possible that national animosities may flame into war. For the sake of peace the arbitrator should assert his authority, direct the withdrawal of the Chilean administration and proceed with the plebiscite. Neither Chile nor Peru can object to this proceeding without stultifying their signatures to the protocol.

It isn't a good mind that makes you think doctors useless, but a good liver.

AN INTERESTING CASE.

The question of the right of the tariff commission to take into consideration the validity of a patent is before the commission. The case was brought before the commission under section 316 of the tariff law permitting exclusion of a foreign commodity in case of unfair methods of competition proved.

It is claimed that the case rests on an alleged infringement of a patent, which does not come within the jurisdiction of the tariff commission, but under the jurisdiction of a court of law.

The case is attracting much attention, since it involves the interpretation of an important section of the tariff act and the powers of the President in such cases.

WHO BUYS AMERICAN STEEL?

According to the Department of Commerce, during the year 1925, countries of the American continents bought nearly 72 per cent of the United States exports of iron and steel. This was a much larger per cent than was absorbed in 1924, when the total bought by North and South American countries was only about 64 per cent of the total production.

Canada in 1925 purchased nearly one-half of the entire amount disposed of in the entire North American continent. Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia and Panama purchased the largest amounts in South America. Cuba purchased an increasing amount in 1925.

The British Isles furnished the best market in Europe for American iron and steel, although shipments there were less in 1925 than in 1924. The most notable growth in sales to Europe was in Italy. The demand in France increased almost three times.

Shipments to the Far East declined, especially in Japan. While sales of American iron and steel products constitute a very considerable part of the American production, domestic or American sales are from three to five times greater. The great bulk of American iron and steel production is sold in the United States or home markets.

Still, it must have been interesting to hear Ananias hold forth concerning trout fishing.

A COLLEGE EDUCATION.

Not many persons probably will agree with John E. Andrus, 85-year-old Yonkers millionaire, who recently declared that a college education is a waste of money. Mr. Andrus himself is a graduate of Wesleyan university, and he sent his son to Yale. Nevertheless, he asserts that 90 per cent of the young men graduated from colleges will never be heard from so far as success is concerned, and that "we are spending too much money foolishly in educating too many people." To support his assertion he points out that the wages of building mechanics are higher than the salaries of professional men. Brains, money and opportunity make success. Eliminate one or more and it is a hard row for any man to hoe; eliminate two and one might get along on brains. Some of the young men in colleges, he says, haven't any of them. Mr. Andrus practices the most rigid economy: eats 20-cent lunches, rides to his office in the subway, never having owned an automobile, and shines his own shoes. His greatest extravagance has been in building a $500,000 mausoleum to hold his body when he dies.

In a similar vein, Prof. Charles E. Rugh, of the University of California, made the statement last week that modern methods of teaching must be relegated to the scrap heap. He averred that the tendency of American universities is to heap all kinds of "meaningless knowledge" upon a student during the four years of college life, "providing no opportunity to integrate the information thus obtained." It little profits a man, he said, to have his head filled with a jumble of facts and figures that are not dove-tailed.

Abraham Lincoln, the California professor said, would never have been heard of if he had been the graduate of a modern American university. "If Lincoln had had knowledge heaped upon him in the manner that it is heaped upon modern youths, his brain would have become so befuddled as to be useless to him," said Prof. Rugh.

In a measure, perhaps, both the Yonkers' millionaire and the university professor have ground for their criticism of American colleges, yet it is undoubtedly true that a great many more college men are coming to the front in our national life, in business and in the professions than was the case some years ago.

Notwithstanding the criticisms offered by Mr. Andrus and Prof. Rugh, as well as others, American parents will continue to send their sons and daughters to college whenever they can afford it.

"Sunlight will cure most of our disorders." It is especially effective in case of a mania for petting.

THE COAL SITUATION.

During the present session of Congress, according to a statement from Scott Turner, director of the bureau of mines of the Department of Commerce, there have been 45 bills introduced in the House and eight in the Senate relating to the production and distribution of coal.

Public hearings were held over a period of six weeks between March 30 and May 14. But in the four weeks which have elapsed all these hearings have failed to produce anything more than expressions of opinion. Nor is it likely that the present session will continue long enough to assure anything like constructive legislation to meet the situation which threatens to become serious with the expiration of the working agreement between the soft coal miners and the mine owners.

On the last day of the hearings before the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce Secretary Hoover delivered a carefully thought-out statement in which he reviewed the whole coal situation and outlined the causes which have produced present conditions in the coal industry. Mr. Hoover pointed out that there are in the United States about 9,000 soft coal mines in about 90 different districts. The number of men employed in the mines is approximately 620,000, "which is about 200,000 more than would be necessary if the required portion of the mines were employed to their utmost capacity." The over-expansion, which is deemed to be the reason why many of the 5,000 operators conduct their business at a loss, is due to war stimulation; economy in the use of coal under boilers through more economical processes, electrification, by-product, coke, oil, &c.; increasing capacity through the lower wage range in non-union fields; great profits when for any causes there is a greatly increased demand; periodic car shortages; and the fact that the Sherman act prevents the organization of larger units which would affect the retirement of less economic units to the "reserves."

Secretary Hoover suggested that a mediation board should be provided for emergencies. He stressed his opposition to a permanent board, as he declared that it is essential that "new minds and new men be on the scene in emergencies," and he would arm the Interstate Commerce Commission with power to control distribution in such emergencies.

"Thus it seems to me," he said, "there are three things to be considered by the committee at the present time: An emergency mediation board, an emergency authority to the commission in coal distribution, and, in failure of provision by the industry, a more effective service as to primary facts." Yet in spite of the fact that Mr. Hoover pointed out that such legislation, while not regulatory, would come into action only in failure to maintain production, the commerce committee has permitted another month to pass without recommending anything whatever to the House.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Otis Lorton, of Tulsa, Oklahoma. He is the managing editor of the Tulsa World. And when you are the main one of a paper in Tulsa, you are some main one, because I am not kidding you when I tell you that Tulsa is a City. Well, this Lorton has proved around quite a bit. I run onto him every once in a while all over the world. I met him the other day and he unloaded the following:

It seems that a Scotchman and an Englishman and an Irishman were lined up waiting for another oil well to be brought in, right outside of Tulsa. Somehow you never see a Scotchman and an Englishman and an Irishman lined up together, and still there must be millions of such line-ups somewhere, because I am always hearing stories about them. Well, these three were waiting for the oil to gush and for the Scotchman to buy the drinks when the Englishman tells about a race he saw on the Thames once that was so close that the winner won on account of having an extra coat of varnish on his shell. And then the Scotchman tells how he saw a horse race only the other day at Okmulgee where the four noses came in together so close that one horse won by sticking out his tongue. And so they asked the Irishman:

"And what was the closest race you ever saw?"

"Sure the Scotch race, of course!"

PRESS COMMENT.

The Greater Need.

Winston-Salem Journal: What this country needs is not more judges but more judgment.

Can't Do It.

Daily Oklahoman: The morticians are planning to take the "funeral" out of last rites and the "pull" out of pallbearers, but it is not to be expected that they will go so far as to abolish dying.

A Good Cup of Coffee.

Philadelphia Inquirer: It is to be hoped that Louis Sherry's death won't change the policy of that compact little luxury in Paris that bears his name. It is about the only place in that city where one can get an honest-tu-godness cup of real American coffee.

Prince No Reporter.

Providence Journal: The Crown Prince of Sweden told 50 newspaper men the other night that he didn't believe he would make a good reporter, and that leaves him practically unique among mankind.

East or West.

Brooklyn Eagle: Butler, of Massachusetts, and Stickney, of Vermont, whistle "East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet," to keep their courage up. A cold stare greets the fellow who asks whether Pennsylvania is East or West. He is a trouble maker.

Money or Souvenirs.

New York Sun: While the Stone Mountain memorial campaigners are selling their 50 cent pieces, Congress has authorized the minting of an Oregon Trail half dollar. If the practice of using the currency to promote good causes keeps up, a man will not know whether his silver change is money or souvenirs.

Curling Irons and Fires.

Louisville Courier Journal: Strike while the iron is hot, or even go shopping at the particular moment, but notify the fire department, should be the advice of Illinois housewives. According to the annual report of the fire marshal of that State, the largest number of fires last year were caused by curling and pressing irons being left unattended.

Congestion in the Courts.

Springfield Republican: Three out of five investigating committees of the New York City Bar association have reported a condition of congestion in the State and Federal courts that obviously demands relief. The situation in New York city is typical of the general situation throughout the country. The social development has distanced the legal machinery which has to deal with it. Our legal practice based on ancient English custom, has retained much of the archaic cumbersome which has been discarded in England itself.

Princely Advice.

Minneapolis Journal: Said Crown Prince Gustav Adolph to representatives of 451 Swedish churches in New York last Sunday: "I am gratified indeed to see how well you have preserved Swedish thought and tradition. In the use of the Swedish tongue in your service, but, on the other hand, you must see that if it is your self-evident duty as American citizens to master fully the English language and the ideals of this country, so that you may fulfill the obligations of American citizenship."

The Bundle Wrapper

By GLENN FRANK.

LAST night I talked long with a great scientist. As he led me through the labyrinths of his laboratory, I felt all the thrill I felt when, as a boy, I read the prophetic pageant of H. G. Wells and Jules Verne.

But after all his talk about colloids and dispersoids, about atomic configuration and energy quanta, I find this simple story sticking in my mind.

His two bright and beautiful children had been taken from him by a disease that he and his colleagues were seeking to combat by their research.

He had adopted an azure-eyed and flower-faced little girl. Ten years before his attention had been called to an English laborer who was about to be discharged from the labor staff of the university for inefficiency as a janitor; he sensed something in the janitor and took him into his laboratory; and in the ten years he had made of him a dependable technician.

This ex-janitor, for ten years, had wrapped all the bundles that went from the laboratory, and in ten years, not an article had been broken in transit or a bundle misdirected.

The afternoon on which my friend, the scientist, took into his home the little girl he was to adopt, he carried to the laboratory a loosely wrapped bundle containing the clothes in which the little girl had come to him. He handed the bundle to the ex-janitor and said, "Wrap these carefully and address the bundle for mailing," as he handed the technician the address of the girl's parents.

When the bundle was brought to the scientist before mailing, he said to the technician, "Just a minute, Joe, you've made a mistake. You have forgotten to put a return address on this bundle."

"No," said Joe, "I thought, in this case, it would be better to leave it off. It will be just as well not to have a record of where she is alive before her parents. It might be embarrassing later."

"For ten years," said the scientist, "I had thought of Joe as working with mechanical precision—but mechanically. But in all those years as he addressed bundles, he had evidently stopped to think what should be done with each bundle."

Joe, the ex-janitor, is interesting from several angles.

There may be many bad janitors who would be good technicians.

As I have said so many times in this column, the secret alike of happiness and of efficiency is the nice adjustment of our temperaments to our tasks, of our ambitions to our abilities.

Then, too, Joe is a symbol of the unusual workman who is not afraid to mix a little thought with his work, however simple and routine his work may be.

SUPERSTITION.

The superstition varies in character and degree, but it is in most of us. There are some who would never start a long journey or transact any essential business on Friday. Others—even those that have the suggestion that they are superstitious—often find it just "convenient" to postpone until another time anything they consider important, says Mentor.

Yet American history is filled with important incidents that occurred on Friday. In fact, we of the western hemisphere would never have come to be what we are if it had not been for a lot of events that happened on Friday.

On Friday, October 12, 1492, Columbus discovered the western hemisphere. Land was reported by one of his sailors, Rodrigo de Triana, at 2 o'clock in the morning.

On Friday, March 6, 1496, Henry VII gave John Cabot his commission to pursue the discovery of America, which resulted in the finding of North America.

On Friday, August 28, 1609, Henry Hudson discovered the Delaware river.

On Friday, September 11, 1609, the Half Moon entered New York bay.

On Friday, August 21, 1620, the Pilgrims sailed from Southampton in the Speedwell.

On Friday, February 22, 1732, George Washington was born.

On Friday, June 16, 1776, Bunker Hill was seized and fortified.

On Friday, October 17, 1777, Burgoyne surrendered at Saratoga.

On Friday, September 22, 1780, Benedict Arnold's treason first came to light.

On Friday, October 19, 1781, Lord Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, says Mentor.

NICOTINE BLINDNESS.

When nicotine and alcohol can not be assimilated because of a jaded, overstimulated and undernourished body they act as poisons and are apt to produce inflammation of the optic nerves, resulting in gradual blindness, writes Derrick T. Vall, M.D., of Cincinnati, a member of the Gorgas Memorial Institute. A person who is "all run down," needs food and rest, not poisonous stimulants.

Large doses of quinine taken when body nutrition is low will sometimes produce blindness and deafness. Wood alcohol acts still more tragically, causing death or hopeless blindness, depending on the amount consumed.

In blindness from wood alcohol the optic nerves are so paralyzed that in a few hours' time they are "dead as Caesar." The optic nerves appear cadaverous and white as snow. Their nourishing blood vessels have all dried up. Such optic nerves will shrivel to be nothing but fibrous cords. Stygian darkness results and no remedy will restore sight.

In optic nerve poisoning with alcohol and tobacco, alone or combined, the blindness is much slower in developing; so slow, indeed, that the victim does not notice falling vision for some weeks. He first observes that colors do not appear so bright and he can not see to read as before. A blind spot forms in the center of vision, which gets larger and denser as the "home fires" in the optic nerves are kept burning by the poisonous fuel contained in the tobacco and booze.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Flag Day.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: The women's auxiliary of the American Legion will hold no exercises on Flag day, but nevertheless every member of the association will hold the day sacred. With all other patriotic citizens, the members of the auxiliary will honor the day—Flag day—as it should be honored throughout the nation.

MAY D. LIGHTFOOT, Chairman Department of Americanization, Washington, June 13.

Civil War Veterans.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: Civil war veterans have a true and hearty appreciation for a sincere public expression of sympathy for the burdens they endure today. For them it has been a long, arduous trail, they have followed it joyfully, diligently, loyally and at the end the darkening shadows, surely, are passing heavy on their 80 and more years.

Such expressions as the article, under the caption "Remember the Veterans" on the editorial page of The Post of June 7 quite clearly and justly define our situation. The mind that conceived the article and the pen that wrote it were inspired and directed by the spirit of truth and justice. It appeals to C. W. V's, and they thank the writer most sincerely for his kindly word.

We beg to suggest the writer might have further illuminated his subject with a truthful statement of why congressional "Consideration of humanity, gratitude and public interest" has been withheld. It would make interesting though sorrowful reading.

A VETERAN OF C. W. Washington, June 8.

The Flag and Flag Day.

To the Editor of The Post:—Sir: On June 14, 1777—almost a century and one-half ago—the Continental Congress adopted a flag, having a field of thirteen stripes with a union of thirteen stars on a blue ground. Such was the flag of our Revolutionary patriots, and such it remained until 1795, when it was changed to "Fifteen stripes, alternate red and white, with a union of fifteen stars, white in a blue field." On April 4, 1818, Congress enacted that "From and after the fourth day of July next, the flag of the United States be thirteen horizontal stripes, alternate red and white; that the union have twenty stars, white in a blue field." And, on June 14, 1926, the 149th anniversary of the adoption by the Continental Congress of our country's first flag will be celebrated.

How bright—how beautiful—is our Star-Spangled Banner! How majestic, when it waves at the top of some lofty office building! How picturesque, when displayed upon a humble cottage! Inspiring, indeed, is our country's flag in a procession, when bands are playing patriotic music. Comforting, cheerful, is our flag, decorating the graves of heroes. Red and white are its thirteen stripes, representing the original States of our nation; white are its forty-eight stars, against an azure background, representing the States of our country. On Flag day—June 14—our Star-Spangled Banner will wave over city and country, over hill and valley, from Atlantic to Pacific, from Canada to Mexico. Glorious flag of our republic—"Old Glory!" CHAS. FEUDIST, WHO KILLED 2 AND SHOT THIRD, FREED Brothers Dead, Father Dying After Long-Standing Ill Feeling in Ozarks.

KNIFE AND GUNS ARE USED

Springfield, Mo., July 13. (By A. P.)—Flinch was written on one of the most unusual Ozark mountain feuds in history yesterday, when William Fletcher of Astoria, Mo., was exonerated by a coroner's jury of all blame in connection with the slaying Friday of Howard and Clements Neal, brothers, and the probably fatal wounding of their father, L. H. Neal, postmaster at Astoria. Immediately after the verdict exonerating Fletcher was returned, holding that he had shot the three men in self-defense. Prosecuting Attorney N. G. Craig filed a charge of felonious assault and possession of liquor against Postmaster Neal, who is near death as a result of being shot through the stomach by Fletcher, who used a shotgun.

A raid on the Neal home, by the sheriff of Wright county, disclosed a large quantity of moonshine liquor. The feud between the Neal and Fletcher families has been one of long standing and was given added impetus recently when Fletcher had one of the Neals arrested for disturbing the peace, resulting in conviction.

Friday, according to officers, Fletcher was walking down the main street of Astoria, a village near here, when a member of the Neal family approached him and started an argument which led to a tussle between the two men, while the two were grappling with each other, Howard Neal approached with a knife and joined the fray. Fletcher managed to break free and ran to his home nearby and secured a shotgun. In the meantime members of the Neal family had barricaded themselves in their home.

Fletcher fired into the Neal home from a window in his house and after a few moments the Neals made a rush for Fletcher. As they ran across the street they poured a continuous volley of lead at Fletcher.

Fletcher in turn kept firing his shotgun and one by one the Neals fell. The two brothers were killed almost instantly, while the father was seriously wounded and removed to a hospital. Fletcher emerged unscathed. Fletcher then drove to Hartsville, the county seat, and rendered to Prosecuting Attorney Craig.

In the argument that ensued, De Vaughn reported, he was forced to strike Williams to maintain his arrest.

FIGHT OVER BIRTHPLACE OF NAVY GROWS WARM

Marblehead, Mass., Issues Reply to Cambridge's Claim for the Honor.

WILBUR'S VIEW IS CITED

Marblehead, Mass., June 13. (By A. P.)—This town fired a salvo today in the battle over the birthplace of the United States navy. It was in answer to Salem's broadside yesterday to the effect that the navy began there 100 years before Marblehead could boast of a man-o'-war. "Cambridge had better make sure," today's statement read in part, "that it preserves the remnants of the elm where Washington stood or Salem will claim that Washington took command of the army some 100 years previous to 1775 or Salem command."

The answer to Salem came from the general committee which tomorrow begins to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the founding of the navy here. The Marblehead defenders said that Secretary of the Navy Wilbur had reviewed Marblehead's claim and found it good. In testimony whereof the navy was sending three battleships to help in the celebration and the graduating class of the Naval Academy at Annapolis was to stop here this week during its cruise.

PRIMARY HEARINGS CONTINUE THIS WEEK

half of which came from the State organization, according to Kenna. Expenditures for the Vore-Beideman organization in Philadelphia and other parts of the State outside of Pittsburgh are yet to be inquired into. Senators plan to ask Mr. Vore himself regarding these matters.

Wheeler Assails Spending By Primary Candidates

(By the Associated Press.)

The expenditure of approximately $1,500,000 in the Pennsylvania Republican primary, as testified before the Senate investigating committee, and the record as a constitutional lawyer of former Senator Atlee Pomerene, now a democratic candidate for the Senate from Ohio, were attacked in two statements issued yesterday by Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel for the Antislavery league.

Of the Pennsylvania primary Mr. Wheeler said the expense fund was a "system of a system fastened on the State by the liquor interests." Declaring the Senate Judiciary committee in its 1918 investigation learned that the "liquor group raised a million dollars in Pennsylvania alone to corrupt elections." Mr. Wheeler added that "you cannot remove the poison from the political system in five or six years."

PLASTER JINX AGAIN FOLLOWS PRESIDENT

was placed at the disposal of the church for the morning service, while the congregation was invited last night to join that of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, where Vice President Dawes worshipped, for the evening service. Unhappily a new church is built, the First Congregational will use the Washington Auditorium.

The falling plaster was a small loosened stone that dropped out of a vent, which was cut in the wall in order that grates for a cooling system might be installed, it was explained at the theater yesterday. The vents are in rammed plaster, it was said, and are not in way of the stagegoers. The vents apparently were not cleaned out properly by workmen, it was said.

OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

KEITH'S

There are two headlines at Keith's this week—Jack Norworth and Kitty Doner—and an act that vies for lead honors: the Albertina Rasch girls, supported by the European comedians, Zozo and Kiki.

Ann Suter, a Washington girl, made her debut at Roland Robbins' show shop, singing a series of syncopated songs. She received an ovation, flowers and everything.

Norworth appears in a sketch with C. Fields scored with in the last Ziegfeld Follies seen here some time ago, Gus Weinberg's comic take-off on married life, "The Naggar," Dorothy Adelphi is the better half. Norworth sings some of his old songs.

Kitty Doner, back from the coast, is assisted by Jack Carroll in her inimitable male impersonations, a clever contribution.

Solos in the Albertina Rasch number are by Ida Levine, Mollie Peck and Florence Miller. There is also a clever burlesque on "The Swan" dance by Zozo and Kiki.

Fred Galetti brings back his dancing monkey, "Umtala." Other acts are Micahua, a wire walker; Irene Rubini and Terese Rosa, singers; Joe Morris and Winnie Baldwin, nut comedians, and the regular house features.

COLUMBIA

"Say It Again," is the title of the vehicle that gives to Richard Dix, Alyce Mills, "Gunboat" Smith, et al, an opportunity to do their stuff at the Columbia this week.

The story is of a princess who falls in love with the doughboy who was all bandaged up in the hospital where she was nursing. She never saw him, the bandages being in the way, so when, two years after, he gets a job as bodyguard for Chester Conklin who has suddenly been promoted from a sausage maker to heir to the throne of Spexonia, she doesn't realize that the handsome cavalier is her old sweetheart.

While there is not much excuse for the picture nor anything convincing in the way of story, "Say It Again" is, nevertheless, good entertainment. A juvenile comedy that has much to do with that delightful "Big Boy" baby, a Lyman Hodge "Hodge Podge," and an interesting news reel completes the bill with the usual orchestra embellishments.

METROPOLITAN

So insistent has been the demand by the populace that Crandall folks deem it expedient to bring back that lovely picture of Cecil deMille's creation, to wit: "The Volga Boatman." It is so happy a picture that the Metropolitan this week with the same program exploited here some three weeks ago.

"The Volga Boatman" tells the story of the old and the new Russia. It is a story of slavery and of freedom. The plot is unfolded in an extremely impartial way. There are three pivotal characters: the Boatman, in which Williams Boyd reaches stardom; the Princess, Elinor Fair's enactment, and the Prince.

Theodore Kosloff and Julia Faye supply what little comedy the picture exploits. Others of lesser importance round out a fine cast. A brief supplementary program, in which Mr. Breeskin's music is of no little importance, rounds out the bill.

PALACE

"Love Mary" was welcomed yesterday in Bessie's Love's return to stardom, opening at the Palace.

"Love Mary" has none of the glamor of an idealistic romance, none of the splendor of society, but little of the thrills of adventure, but is a tender, and at times almost pathetic story that cannot fail to find an enthusiastic response. Despite the lack of these and maybe because of it, "Love Mary" is good. "Wandering Willies," an amusing Mack Sennett comedy, "Pathe News," and "Topics of the Day" complete the film attractions. Prof. Gannon's music was again enjoyable.

Edinburgh to Honor American War Dead

Edinburgh, Scotland, June 13. (By A. P.)—A war memorial to American Scots is to be erected in the famous Princess Street gardens. The plans of the memorial are in the hands of an American committee and the Edinburgh authorities. Its architectural setting and other details have yet to be settled. A total sum of £10,000 will be required for the memorial and the plans call for raising most of this money among the Scottish population of the United States.

RIALTO

Syd Chaplin is back again with the frantic comedy stuff at the Rialto this week in a picture that fairly struggles to compete with his other releases. The picture is dubbed "Oh, What a Nurse."

The picture, if it was Chaplin's first, would prove to be a knock-out and a complete success as a comedy, but knowing Syd's other excellent contributions the fan is prone to give a pathetic sigh and accept Syd's latest offering with a grain of salt. The main trouble with "Oh, What a Nurse" seems to lie in the fact that the hilarious moments are too far between, even though they are screamingly funny when they arrive.

The fault may be described as a somewhat stuttering continuity. On the stage Mr. Guterson is presenting two skits, both excellent—the one featuring Estelle Murray and Royal Foster who do a waltz, "The Merry Widow."

The second skit is presented by an aggregation of youngsters who dance and sing. They're fine.

The usual house numbers include a song, "Gold and Pines," the news reel and the orchestra number, a selection from "The Dream Waltz."

EARLE

Count Berni Viel has a very good act in the show at the Earle theater this week. The staging effects are clever and the performers are good. From its unusual opening scene to its equally snappy ending the act was well received by the audience.

The count and his ten American beauties played some peppy jazz and straight music and Eileen did a Charleston. Sharing honors with the count was the monologue act of Lillian Shaw, which kept the audience amused throughout the act.

Also on the program were Arthur Alexander and company with the Vantines and Austin Shaw in "Dixieland to Broadway," a good black-face act; Ann Francis and Wally in "Oh, How Can You Say That," and Paula in an acrobatic act. This week's photoplay is "Early to Wed," with Matt Moore, Kathryn Perry and Zasu Pitts. The usual house features completed the show.

BOYS AND GIRLS HERE FOR SPELLING MATCH

Contestants From All Over Country Assemble for National Bee.

Carrying dictionaries and spelling books, 25 boys and girls are gathering in Washington for the second national spelling bee. The bee will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the auditorium of the National museum. It will be open to the public.

Two of the contestants arrived last night. They were Pauline Bell, 14 years old, of Clarkson, Ky., and Betty Robinson, 13 years old, of South Bend, Ind. Like the other contestants, these two girls spelled down all other school children in their respective territories. Both girls were accompanied by chaperons.

Another arrival yesterday was Louis Neuhouser, 14 years old, of Louisville, Ky., who won the bee last year by spelling the word "gladiolus." He will be a guest at this spelling bee.

EVIDENCE

By MARY M. WOOLEY.

ALICE LAYNE saw the blue piece of paper drop out of her husband's coat pocket as he hurriedly grabbed that garment off the little settee.

There was always a scuffle in the Layne household mornings for Bob to catch the interurban. This particular morning had been unusually trying.

A bunco party the night before in town that they had attended had been responsible for their sleeping late. They were both rather irritable and the coffee had not been up to standard. It seemed as though sparks fairly scintillated around the usually normal household.

Alice never knew why she didn't tell Bob that a letter had dropped out of his coat unless it was that she felt perverse. Bob had been impatient about breakfast; displeased with the coffee; so she wouldn't tell him.

He snatched his hat, kissed her hurriedly, and then she heard the door slam. He was gone.

Now, Alice like all daughters of Eve, was curious but she could not be called suspicious. There was no cloud of distrust between her and Bob. Never, in the two short years of marriage, had there been any scandal or the slightest semblance of any triangular affair.

So, when she saw her husband's splendidly proportioned figure swing onto the bus, she turned again to the blue piece of paper, folded carefully, and lying innocent looking right on the floor where it had fallen. She picked it up. A faint rather exotic perfume came from it. For some reason, it seemed a sinister thing; a sort of omen that Alice felt loathe to read.

Opening it surreptitiously, although she was alone, the house, her expression changed. With heart palpitating loudly, she read:

Dearest Bob: It seems an age since I saw you! Why don't you tell her that you don't love her any more? No woman can take the place of a man who has ceased to love her. I can still feel your kisses warm and soft upon my lips! Life is wonderful to those who love! You promise me you would not keep me waiting. You must get your freedom and come to me—Blanche.

Alice Layne looked around the room. Why, just a few moments before, Bob had sat there at the breakfast table. She had poured his coffee; served his bacon and toast. Bob, big, virile, her Bob! She drew her hand across her eyes in a gesture of hopelessness.

"Blanche," she can take the place of a man who has ceased to love her. But, Inglenook was a resort up the lake. She had heard cynical, disillusioned women say so often at clubs and teas: "Men are all alike. You can't trust them where a woman is concerned."

She would leave Bob. He had promised Blanche that he would be

HIS MOTHER

Edited by John Kaye.

THE MOTHER OF JOHN GOLDEN, FAMOUS PRODUCER.

THE mother of John Golden, one of the most famous theatrical producers in the country, has had a powerful influence over her son's work. Golden has established a reputation for the production of plays that are generally in violent contrast to other Broadway productions, being absolutely "clean" to use a somewhat broad term and of a kind that she can take the child to see without any hesitations. "Lightnin'" is a typical example.

How he came to specialize in such plays is partly explained by Mr. Golden himself in these words: "My mother never trained me. She just loved me. She was beautiful, and she had the refinement that goes to make a lady. She was a wonderful singer and taught me to appreciate good music."

"She never had much money but she gave me what money couldn't buy. I can't tell you how she did it. I suppose it was just by being so fine herself. And her influence has shown in the kind of plays I have produced."

"Some years ago, when I was a grown man, we went to the theater together. I didn't know before that the play was off-color. At the end of the first act mother said to me, 'John, I don't think we want to stay any longer, do you?' and we got up and left."

"I wouldn't enjoy putting on a play that my mother couldn't sit through."

Mr. Golden was a song writer before he took to producing, and wrote about a thousand songs. "Poor Butterfly" was one of his hits. And before he was a songwriter he was an important executive in a large chemical company, drawing down a salary of $45,000 a year. This was only at the age of 28. He gave up his commercial activities when he felt the urge of the theater too strongly upon him.

CONVERSATION.

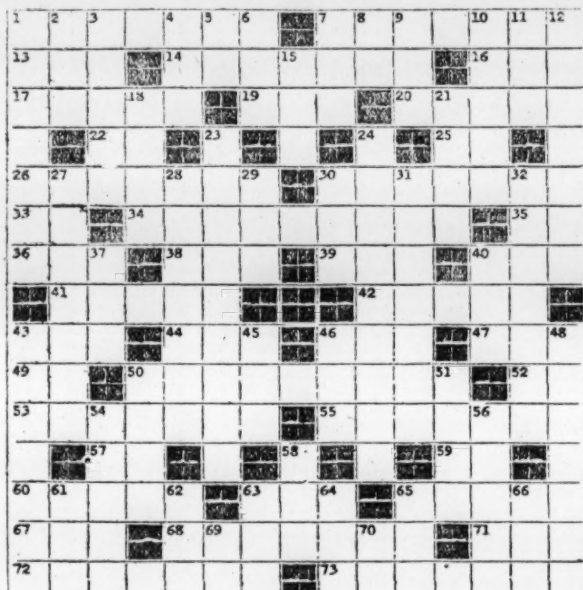

THOMAS J. MURRAY IN THE NEW YORK SUN.

We might have talked about the books now read. Penned by the brilliant minds that strive and storm; All this was possible, and so I said: "It's rather warm."

We could have touched upon the latest plays. The modern drama with its virile strain. I heard myself exclaim as in a daze: "It looks like rain."

At least I thought so: would the weather clerk.

INCREASED ACTIVITY IN TRADE FORESEEN AS SUMMER OPENS

Railways and Steel Show
Improvement Following Backward Spring.

FREIGHT LOADINGS ARE

Measures to Remedy Conditions in the Textile Industry Begun.

New York, June 13 (By the Associated Press).—In contrast to the situation prevailing a year ago the summer season has opened with a promise of greater trade and industrial activity. Concrete evidence of improvement in business following a backward spring has been supplied by the railroads and the steel industry, with an accompanying upturn in stock prices contributing to the more cheerful mood.

The current reports of railway operation have been increasingly favorable. Freight loadings after reaching a weekly total exceeding a million cars for the first time on record in May have been maintained above that mark for three consecutive weeks. Compliments by the bureau of railway economics also show that other traffic records had fallen by the way.

Freight Sets Record.
The volume of freight transported by class 1 carriers in the first four months of the year, totaling 148,065,839,000 net ton miles, was the greatest for any corresponding period on record and represented an increase of more than 6 per cent over last year's. In April the daily average movement of freight cars, approximately 29 miles, was the highest ever reached for this month.

The revival of steel buying, which began in May, expanded sufficiently by the end of the month to cut the decrease in unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation to about 218,000 tons, compared with a reduction of more than 500,000 tons in April.

With an increased demand for pig iron, structural steel and railroad material stiffer resistance was offered to price concessions. Pig iron quotations were believed to be "scrapping bottom" according to trade reports, while additional advances were predicted for several steel products. Equipment orders from the railroads have been expanding for several weeks and are expected to bulk even larger in the second half of the year.

Merchandise Sales Big.
Distribution of merchandise continued on a large scale, with the coming of warm weather offsetting the effects of lagging spring trade. Wholesale prices of many commodities turned toward higher levels.

Measures to remedy unsatisfactory conditions in the textile industry were considered at meetings of cotton manufacturers last week and are expected to lead to the formation of a national cooperative organization. Operating and selling methods in other leading industries will be studied with a view to devising plans for meeting the problems of the cotton trade. Curtailment of production has been accepted by most manufacturers as the best means of improving conditions at the present time.

WALL STREET GOSSIP
New York, June 13 (By A. P.). Retail sales by general Motors dealers to the public in May established a new high record, amounting to 141,651 cars compared with 136,643 in April and 106,051 in March. Each of these three months have made new high records over the corresponding months of preceding years, while each also established new high records for any month in any previous year.

A new high record also was recorded for the first five months of 1926, retail sales reaching 503,014 cars against 320,496 in the same period of 1925 and 315,084 in 1924. Sales by manufacturing divisions to dealers in May were 120,979 compared with 122,742 in April and 113,341 in March, and for the first five months 524,707 cars, against 318,121 in 1925 and 320,115 in 1924.

Profits of Hudson Motor Car Co. for the second quarter are estimated in the neighborhood of $4,300,000 which with $2,700,000 for the first fiscal quarter will make a showing of $7,000,000 for the six months ended May 31, equivalent to $5.25 a share on 1,330,000 shares outstanding before the 20 per cent stock dividend.

Business Indigestion Fit Is Over, in Leaders' Belief

By S. S. FONTAINE.

New York, June 13.—While the professors of pessimism continue to throw a smoke screen over the business horizon, the captains of industry and the bankers of major dimensions see the sun shining beyond the mists and a blue sky framing the landscape. And the fact that the country's financial triumvirate is smiling approval on the constructive market activities of the big operators, if they are not actually inspiring them, is pretty good proof that they believe business has got over its fit of indigestion and the pessimists are now the only ones that have a pain in their little insides.

Major considerations in the stock market in the week just closed were so diversified as to admit of no specific explanation for renewed speculative activity on the side of rising prices. The market had been working gradually upward for nearly a fortnight before the public began to show the slightest interest, but a statement by the Secretary of the Treasury revealing that no financing would be done for government account on the June 15 date, was just the spark necessary to rekindle the smoldering interest in stocks. However, this was not the sole reason for the brisk advance which culminated with scores of new high records late in the week. Early in the year the sudden shift to a pessimistic psychology was accompanied by prediction that by June general business would be extremely dull and corporation profits would be shrinking.

Professional speculators as well as a good many amateurs reckoned on this decline in business and went heavily short of the market expecting to recover at lower prices. But the business reaction failed to develop the proportion anticipated and neither did the stock market decline after its original break in March as far as had been expected. Instead it turned about and initiated a creeping move upward. This slow movement did not do much to encourage public buying and it was deceptive enough to prevent the shorts from covering, although in the course of the last three weeks the rally had run almost 15 points in the advance and the aggregate losses to those who sold near the bottom must have been imposing.

operation of radios throughout Poland. A charge is made for the broadcasting service ranging from 20 to 150 zlotys annually, depending on the location of the receiving sets, payable to the Polish Radio Co., by all residents of Poland in possession of receiving sets.

Industrial production in the soviet union in April broke all monthly records since the revolution. It is shown in statistics received by the Russian information bureau. The month's production was 3.26 per cent greater than in March and 50 per cent more than that of April last year. This is the first time in four years that the April output exceeded that of March. Industrial production from October 1 to May 1, the first seven months of the soviet fiscal year, the report said, showed a gain of 45.6 per cent over the previous corresponding period.

REINVESTMENT FUNDS RAISE BOND AVERAGES

New High Level for the Year Reached; New Issues
Are Absorbed.

EASY MONEY RATES AID

New York, June 13 (By the Associated Press).—The potent influence of the June reinvestment demand was visible in the bond market last week when the combined average of prices reached a new high level for the year and more than $100,000,000 in new offerings were readily absorbed. Underlying conditions, such as easy money rates, more cheerful financial and business sentiment and further improvement in the stock market favored the advance.

Of great importance in its indirect bearing on the bond market was the announcement that the United States Treasury for the first time since the war would not find it necessary to borrow at this time. Wall street, which had been counting on a bond issue of $200,000,000 or $300,000,000, was taken by surprise and immediately began surveying the field for other satisfactory short-term securities.

Funds which were being accumulated partly in anticipation of a government offering were forced to seek an outlet in other quarters, and this accounted in no little degree for the strength of investment obligations and the prompt subscription of new bond issues. The mere indication of the Treasury's strong financial position helped to restore confidence in security values.

Constructive news developments, such as favorable earnings statements and reports of progress on merger and reorganization plans, stimulated buying of the most speculative bonds. Railroad liens regained their normal popularity, with substantial advances recorded by Southern and Southwestern issues.

The sustained strength of German obligations was the outstanding feature of trading in the foreign division. New high records were established by the government's dollar bonds and several of the most active corporation issues. Much of the buying was popularly credited as preparation for new financing, but a factor of equal importance was the growing appreciation of Germany's financial and industrial recovery. This progress has been the more striking because of the political unsettlement and lack of stabilized monetary conditions in the other continental countries. Bond issues for German steel companies, public utilities and even a Roman Catholic institution were reported in course of preparation.

Public utility issues led the field of new financing, which approximated $108,000,000, compared with only $36,000,000 in the preceding week. The Southern California Edison Co. was represented with a $40,000,000 issue of 5 per cent bonds and a $15,000,000 block was sold for the Detroit Edison Co. These additions to the supply of high-grade utilities failed to check the demand for listed issues, many of which eclipsed their previous high prices.

The first offering of Federal Land Bank bonds this year, a $60,000,000 issue of 4 1/4 per cent obligations, is scheduled to appear in the market this week.

New bond offerings tomorrow include $2,792,000 province of New Brunswick, Canada, 10-year 4 1/2 per cent gold bonds, due June, 1926, priced at 100 and interest, yielding 4.75 per cent, and $3,000,000 7 per cent closed first mortgage 30-year sinking fund gold bonds of the German Mill Machinery Co. at 92 1/4 and accrued interest yielding about 7.65 per cent. The German mill bonds have stock purchase warrants in the ratio of ten shares of common stock for each $1,000 of bonds.

The holdings of the United States Government in the capital stock of the Federal Land Banks have been reduced from $9,000,000, at the time of the inauguration of the System, to about $1,200,000, as of April 30, 1926. During the same period the Farm Loan associations acquired approximately $53,000,000 capital stock, part of the proceeds of which was used to retire stock owned by the Government as required by the Farm Loan Act. The United States Government has purchased and now holds over $100,000,000 Federal Land Bank Bonds. This amount will shortly be reduced by not more than $40,000,000 4 1/4% Bonds to be taken down from the United States Treasury with the proceeds of an equivalent par amount of 4 1/4% Bonds included in this offering. The saving to the Federal Land Banks resulting from this transaction will be about $100,000 per annum. While these Bonds are not Government obligations, and are not guaranteed by the Government, they are the secured obligations of Banks operating under Federal charter with Governmental supervision, on whose boards of direction the Government is represented.

At the request of the Federal Farm Loan Board in co-operation with and on behalf of the Federal Land Banks, we offer these Bonds:

Price 101% and Interest, to yield over 4 1/8%

The Preferred and Common Stock of the Corporation are held by leading business men and corporations of Norfolk and Portsmouth. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Norfolk & Western Railway Co., the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., the Norfolk & Washington Steamship Co., the Old Dominion Steamship Co., and the Baltimore Steam Packet Co., are among the largest holders of this stock.

SECURITY

These Bonds are secured by a direct First Mortgage on all of the Corporation's fixed assets consisting of 60 acres of land at Virginia Beach, Va., with frontage of over 1,800 feet on the Atlantic Ocean, together with all improvements thereon, including the new 200 room hotel and its furnishings. The value of the land alone has been appraised by five independent real estate authorities as follows:

Mr. A. P. Grice, President Guaranty Title and Trust Corp., Norfolk, Va.	$646,300
Mr. Norman Bell, President Citizens Bank of Norfolk, Va.	683,000
Messrs. Baldwin Bros., Norfolk, Va.	627,500

This is equivalent to $2,675 of property value for each $1,000 Bond issued. Based on the lowest appraisal, there is $2,595 of property value for each $1,000 Bond issued. The Corporation's title to this property is guaranteed by the Guaranty Title & Trust Corporation, Norfolk, Va. The entire proceeds from the sale of this issue of Bonds are to be impounded with the Trustee as a fund to guarantee the completion of the building, or else the Company will give the trustee a bond for completion, guaranteed by one of the recognized surety companies.

EARNINGS

The American Hotels Corporation has estimated the annual earnings of the Hotel as follows:

Gross Earnings	$631,924
Operating Expenses (including taxes, maintenance and depreciation)	419,133
Net Earnings available for Bond interest	$212,791
Annual Interest on this entire issue of First Mortgage Bonds	42,250
Balance	$170,541

These annual net earnings available for interest are more than 3 times the maximum annual interest charges on these First Mortgage Bonds and more than 3 1/2 times the combined maximum annual interest and sinking fund requirements.

MANAGEMENT

The management of the Hotel will be under the supervision of the American Hotels Corporation, who with their affiliated interest, the United Hotels Corporation, operate more than 40 of the most popular hotels in the Country, including the Hotel Roosevelt in New York and the Benjamin Franklin Hotel in Philadelphia.

CHICAGO ROOKIE PITCHER SHUTS OUT WASHINGTON

Combination Title Series Planned

Md., Va. and District Unlimiteds to Meet Thursday.

The Washington Post to Reward Section Winners.

UNLIMITED baseball teams of Maryland, northern Virginia and the District will gather at the Washington Post building on Thursday night at 8 o'clock to discuss the forming of a series of the teams from the three sections to take place of the usual separate championship leagues.

Local teams in meeting last Saturday night were unanimously in favor of the combined circuit and it was decided to bring all the clubs together for a general discussion.

If the plan materializes, in place of the Maryland, Virginia and District series, as they have been run in the past, the combined teams will be divided into sections regardless of where their home field is located.

THIS procedure would eliminate the possibility of playing off the championship games at a date late in the fall, and all concerned feel that it would be a paying proposition to the teams.

In the event that the switch is made to the combined series, The Washington Post will give cups to the winners of each section instead of the champions of the three localities as was previously offered.

All Maryland, Virginia and District unlimited clubs are invited to send their managers or representatives to the meeting.

EAGLE JUNIORS WIN.

Indians Pound Gray; Gehrig and Lazzari Get Circuit Clouts to Down Browns.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 13 (By A. P.).—Uhle held Philadelphia to two hits today and Cleveland made it two straight by winning, 4 to 1.

In the fifth inning Hale made Philadelphia's first hit, a double that was the big factor in the Athletics escaping a shutout, as Poole drew a pass just ahead of the two-base hit. Lamar made the other hit with one out in the ninth.

Cleveland knocked Gray out of the box in the first inning, but could do little with Willis and nothing with Pate. Shortstop Galloway, of the Athletics, was spiked and retired in favor of Engle, a young shortstop from North Carolina.

Philadelphia ABROA: Cleveland, ABROA: Philadelphia, 4 to 1. Runs—Pate, 1; Engle, 1. Hits—Pate, 2; Engle, 1. Errors—Pate, 1; Engle, 1.

U.S. Stars Win Doubles Title

Richards and Kinsey Defeat Brugnon and Cochet.

Langlen and Vlasto Easily Capture Women's Crown.

PARIS, June 12 (By A. P.).—Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey won the doubles title in the international hard courts championships at the Racing club today by defeating Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, the French pair, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4.

Mrs. Langlen and Didi Vlasto easily defeated Mrs. L. A. Godfree and Miss Joan Colyer, of England, 6-1, 6-1, in the finals of the women's doubles.

Kinsey had his share of ill luck, as when he was in the third set, he was eliminated in the mixed doubles by Mr. and Mrs. Godfree. He started in this match within ten minutes after the finals of the men's doubles and was too tired to carry the attack alone.

HOWERS fell throughout the day, halting the doubles at the end of the second set for a time, and again, when Miss Ryan and Kinsey were playing the Godfree, they were forced to flee the courts to avoid a deluge.

Richards and Kinsey led almost throughout against Cochet and Brugnon, which only lost, were they pressed. Then the Americans softened for a time and served dainty shots right on to the racquet of Cochet, who was waiting at the net to kill them.

In the first, second and last sets, however, Richards and Kinsey were easily masters of the Frenchmen, and kept Cochet at a safe distance from the net most of the time; they even had him netting their drives at a good rate.

The American team, having concluded a fortnight of tennis here, will leave tomorrow for England, where Richards and Kinsey will meet the British stars at Eastbourne in an international match.

Milwaukee Has Won 20 Games in Row Now

Milwaukee, Wis., June 13 (By A. P.).—Milwaukee continued its sensational winning streak in the American association by taking two games from Columbus today, 11 to 4 and 8 to 2, the double triumph running the Brewers' string of consecutive winnings to 20 games.

Giants Defeat Reds; Meusel Stars at Bat

New York, June 13 (By A. P.).—The New York Nationals broke their losing streak here today by defeating the league-leading Cincinnati club, 10 to 3, in the first game of the series.

Meusel drove in three and scored two of New York's six runs. Ross Young stole three bases.

The Giants found the four Cincinnati pitchers easy, getting 14 hits for 21 bases. The defeat for Cincinnati brought the Pittsburgh Nationals, who were idle, to within a game of the leaders.

Covey Works Against Sox Today

Harris Expects Stan to Give Nats Edge in Series.

Nat Leader May Send Johnson Back Tomorrow.

By FRANK H. YOUNG. CHICAGO, June 13.—Stanley Coveleskie, who of late has been showing signs of a return to his 1925 form when he led the American league in both won and lost percentages and earned runs granted, will get the assignment against the White Sox in tomorrow's game.

In the getaway day game Tuesday, Joe Bush may get the call and then again he may not. The former Brownie, Bucky admits, has him puzzled. He has been pounded all over the lot on his last few starts, and after each, Stan has solemnly announced that Bullet Joe will be given a rest.

"I can't quite make up my mind about Bush," said Bucky in discussing his case this morning. "He's been hit a good deal, and I keep on hoping that he suddenly will get started and then keep on winning. I've seen him at his best and it doesn't look to me that he has lost much of his stuff until suddenly the other fellows get to pounding him. I may give him another chance in the final game here."

THE chances are, however, that it will be Walter Johnson who actually draws the assignment. The Old Master worked but five frames yesterday, and after a slow start, which cost him a few outs, he settled down and looked as good as he has any time this season.

Harris has promised St. Louis fans that he will work the Old Master in the Sunday game in the Mount City, and it is a cinch that he will not allow the big pitcher to idle until then, as experience has shown that too little work for the veteran is just as harmful to him as too much.

There was an interesting scrap in the Washington dressing room before today's game. Empire Tommy Connolly and Gate Crasher "One Eyed" Connolly meeting at catch weights. The signal caller won. It seems he was personally acquainted with the other "One-Eyed" who died many years ago, and he did not hesitate in telling the present gate-crashing king that he was a cousin.

Japan Drops Single Match to Mexican

Mexico City, June 13 (By A. P.).—Japan won four out of five tennis matches from Mexico in the present Davis cup contests, when Sekio Tawara defeated Lozano, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4, today in the concluding event.

In an earlier match today the Mexican player Claude M. Butlin proved too strong for Teizo Tobata, winning, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1. This, however, did not affect the final outcome, Japan having already won the necessary three out of five matches, thereby eliminating Mexico from the annual zone play.

Petty Pulls Dodgers Out of Hole to Win

Brooklyn, June 13. (By A. P.).—Burleigh Grimes weakened in the ninth inning here today but Jess Petty pulled Brooklyn out of a hole and the Cubs were beaten in their first 1926 appearance at Ebbets field. The score was 6 to 5.

Chicago ABROA: Brooklyn, ABROA: Chicago, 6 to 5. Runs—Petty, 1; Grimes, 1. Hits—Petty, 2; Grimes, 1. Errors—Petty, 1; Grimes, 1.

Totals: 35 24 13. Batted for Grimes in seventh. Batted for Petty in ninth. Batted for Grimes in tenth.

in the Press Box with Baxter

THIS appears to be the open season for reprimands. This column is thinking of establishing a complaint department so that those who have a crow to pick with it may get prompt and expeditious service.

Today Miss Isabelle M. Parks is of the opinion that there is a conspiracy on foot to do her Yankees wrong, and readers of this column may remember that in Miss Parks the Rupert Rifles have a champion who is both active and vociferous.

"I am very much puzzled by a problem that confronts me," she writes, "and although I have worked out a theory that may contain the correct solution, I am writing to tell you all about it. You know how it is! Whenever I get hopelessly confused, I appeal to you, knowing that you will explain it all in words of one syllable. So here goes.

"First, I'll tell you the conclusion I've reached, and then the contributing circumstances. I believe you have discovered a new definition of the word 'news', and are trying it out on the public as follows: When the Yankees win, that's not news. But when the Yankees lose, that's news. For practically the entire stretch of our pathetic winning stretch of sixteen games, we were consigned to the innermost pages of the sporting section. But oh, boy! how we crashed the first page when Philly beat us three straight.

"For instance, take this morning. Yesterday, there were two games played in the American league and four in the National. This morning the box office results of the game between the Browns and the Red Sox and of all the National league games appeared conspicuously on the first page of the sporting section. Where was the box score of the Yankee-Detroit game? I ask you where? And I reply for you by stating that it was buried, submerged or (well, have you?) on the third page in the midst of some doubtless thrilling sandlot games. And did the account even have a headline to help an earnest seeker for statistics? Did it say—Yankees win fourth straight from Detroit, or anything like that? Again I answer, No. It said, 'Cooper hit hard in first start as Tiger, or something like that. Of course, you might figure that where there was hard hitting, there you will find the Yankees, but somehow I don't think you meant it that way.

"AND then again, last Wednesday night, I bought the midnight edition of The Post to find out whatever gory details I could about my Yanks, and although the paper contained the box score of every game played, it merely carried a paragraph to the effect that the Yankees had won. Can you imagine the mental strain under which I was forced to retire, not knowing which of the boys got hits or why?

"Now, seriously, what's it all about? Of course, the publication of our box score with the sand-lotters may be a subtle hint that that is our real case. But is that fair to Detroit? Do we pull every other team in the league into the amateur class with us when we engage in combat?

"OR is it possible that you are just a trifle jealous of Col. Rupert's and my team? And if you want to know why we aren't jointly, I'll tell you. Part of the colonel's interest arises from the fact that he owns the majority of the stock. But the real reason that he shares with me in the ownership is that, with the single exception of myself, no human being suffers as much as he does when the Yankees lose. And, in fact, he is a true fan and suffers no matter what happens. If you don't believe it, you should have sat in the box directly behind him, as I did, during the last game of the 1923 world's series. Our joint agony was pathetic to behold. Up to that time, I regarded the Yankees as exclusively mine, but on the strength of his noble gloom on that occasion, I awarded him joint interest in the club. In joint interest even have a headline to help an earnest seeker for statistics?

Red Sox Beat Tigers; Manush Error Hurts

Detroit, June 13. (By A. P.).—The Red Sox beat their series with Detroit one-all today, winning 7 to 3 behind Witte's effective pitching. The Sox, who started for Detroit, failed to lead the first inning. An error by Manush in the first was responsible for three Boston runs.

Nats Obtain Only Pair Of Hits

Ruether Hurls Well But Thomas Better.

Peck's First Error of Season Aids in Scoring.

By FRANK H. YOUNG. CHICAGO, June 13.—The story of this afternoon's game with the White Sox, which the latter won, 3 to 0, has little to do with the Nationals, as they merely were present and gave their time.

Alphonso Thomas, Baltimore Rookie, pitched against them, and he literally stood the Washington batters on their heads, granting but two hits, fanning five, and otherwise comporting himself like a real box artist. He walked but one, and the only Nat who got as far as second base was Peckinpough, who singled in the third and stole, only to see Thomas fan two of his next three mates who faced him.

Ruether showed conclusively that he has recovered from the arm ailment which has had him on the shelf for the past two weeks or more and pitched well enough to win the ordinary game. Of the eight innings he tolled, seven were good ones, but his one poor one was enough to spill the beans for him.

B RILLIANT catches by Goslin, Falk and Barrett featured the game, and these, together with the fact that the Sox won, counteracted the depressing effect that the dark, gloomy day had on the large gathering of about 25,000 cash customers, who wended their way through the turnstiles.

The Sox broke the ice in the second when they coiled two runs and as the game progressed this run loomed up larger and larger. Ruether then settled down and hurled a good game. True, Chicago obtained a hit now and then and also benefitted from three passes, but the southpaw was never in hot water again until the eighth, when another walk, errors by Peck and Ruether and Crouse's dinky little hit were good for one more.

Falk opened this second round with a single and stayed on first, while Barrett and Kamm were retired. Then Dutch weakened and singled by Crouse and Mostil, with "Thomas" walk sandwiched in between, gave the Sox their first two markers.

In the eighth, Peck's first error of the season gave Shellenbaker a chance to change places on the sacks with Falk on a fielder's choice. After Barrett had become a pedestrian, Crouse singled Bib over, Ruether being charged with an error as the other runners advanced, although he had little chance to shut off the run.

What hopes the Nats had of staging a final stand were dashed to the ground when Falk came tearing in and made a great somersault catch of Judge's liner just when the Nats were trying to tell themselves that they were going to repeat their performances of the past two games and win out on a Garrison finish.

FACTIONS IN SENATE
PREPARE FOR FINAL
FARM BILL BATTLE

Hope of Success Slight, Unless the South Throws Its Support to Measure.

ROLL CALL EXPECTED
BY MIDDLE OF WEEK

Conference Planned for Today to Smooth Out Remaining Difficulties.

(By The Associated Press.)

With a final vote only a few days off, leaders of the two sides in the Senate fight over the McNary farm bill are prepared to make the most of the final stages of debate.

Only one full day of discussion remains as limitation of debate begins tomorrow with a roll call expected Wednesday or Thursday.

Opponents plan to continue their assault on the bill with counter proposals, while proponents are ready with new appeals to the Southern Democrats to join the Western group and save the legislation.

Managers of the measure freely admit that it is doomed unless senators from the cotton States come to its aid. The Democrats, however, fear that their support might put them in a position of incurring a protective tariff, and under the direction of Senator Robinson, Arkansas, their floor leader, they plan to urge a general reduction of the tariff to relieve the farmers.

Last Conference Today.

Leaders of the proponents believe they have cleared the atmosphere by their agreements in conference to eliminate cattle from the bill's equalization provisions, and to defer for two years operation of the fee against cotton. At another conference today they hope to reach a final decision as to whether either corn or hogs will be eliminated. They contend that because of the close relationship between the corn and hog markets relief for either one will be reflected in the other.

A discussion of farm relief by Bernard M. Baruch, of New York, who said he preferred to keep the government out and leave the matter entirely in the hands of the farmers, except where it is necessary for the government to see, in the interests of all, that a price is not made that is not justified by the facts," was made public last night by George N. Peek, chairman of the executive committee of the North Central States Agricultural conference.

"It was interesting and most agreeable to me," Mr. Baruch's statement said, "to learn that approval had been given by Sir Josiah

Stamp to the efforts of the agricultural interests to take care of their surplus through use of an equalization fee. As you know, this has met my heartiest support since the matter was first broached some two years ago.

Praises Farmers More.

"Whereas the tariff and the railroad rates affect agricultural interests seriously, it is to the credit of the farmers that they have not endeavored to pull either of those down, but rather they have tried to raise themselves up to the level of the railroads and the protected industries. In order to do this, they have been effectively exhausted for any loss that may be incurred in selling the surplus outside of the country. This is the farmers' means, and a proper one, to take advantage of the tariff, which is a political question."

Replying, Mr. Peek asserted that

"now that the soundness of the economics have been established, it seems to me it would be well for the members of Congress representing both parties to discontinue their partisan politics from their minors and to consider the farmers as the one side and yourself, on the other, and proceed to serious consideration of a solution already too long delayed."

UTILITIES MEASURE EXPECTED TO PASS SENATE THIS WEEK

Senator Capper Expected to Call Up Bill for Final Action.

HOUSE ALREADY HAS APPROVED ITS PASSAGE

Engineer Commissioner May Remain as Member of New District Body.

The bill creating a separate public utilities commission for the District is expected to be called up in the Senate for final passage this week. Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, is watching for a lull in the agricultural debate with a view to calling up the utilities bill at the earliest possible moment.

It is regarded as a certainty that the measure will be passed before adjournment. It has already been passed by the House. As amended by the Senate District committee, the bill would provide that the engineer commissioner remain as one of the three members of the new commission.

The new body would have been entirely separate from the present commissioners under the provisions of the bill passed by the House. The Senate committee thought, however, that the engineer commissioner should be a member in order that coordination between his department and utility regulation might be brought about. Engineer Commissioner Bell had suggested that the police commissioner should remain a member of the new commission because traffic regulation dovetails with utility regulation in many instances.

Counsel for People.

Aside from the three members of the commission, a people's counsel is also authorized. Provision for this counsel has already been made in the annual District appropriation bill.

On the House side action is likely to be sought at the earliest possible time on the bill authorizing the erection of a new nurses' home at Columbia hospital. Chairman Zihlman, of the House District committee, and Representatives Houston, Delaware, Beers, Pennsylvania, and several other members of the committee visited the hospital Saturday and left with the unanimous opinion that a new home was needed.

The Senate District committee is to consider this measure today as well as measures by Senator Gerry, of Rhode Island, to create a parole commission here, and one by Senator Capper to provide for annual instead of biennial assessments.

The meeting of this committee to consider the attitude of local coal dealers regarding making their books available to the committee has been postponed until later in the week in order to give the Department of Justice further time to study the matter.

Arts Club Completes Committees for Year

The completion of all committees for the years 1926-7 of the Arts Club of Washington was announced yesterday by the president, L. M. Lisenberg, and the board of governors of the club. The program committee which has charge of the weekly schedule of musical, literary, art, dramatic and educational events at the club is composed of Lynch Lauer, chairman; Mrs. Fulton Lewis, vice chairman; Mrs. William W. Smith, past chairman, and chairman and vice chairman of all standing committees.

The chairmen of the standing committees are Felix Mahony, art committee; Henry K. Bush-Brown, civic committee; Alino E. Solomons, committee on cooperation and hospitality; Mrs. Maud Howell, dramatic committee; Will Hutchins, education committee; L. M. Lisenberg, finance committee.

Jackson to Attend Atlantic City Meeting

F. H. Jackson, assistant chief engineer of the bureau of public roads, will leave this city for Atlantic City next week to address members of the American Society for Testing Materials at their twenty-ninth annual meeting, from June 21 to June 25. Mr. Jackson is scheduled to deliver an address on paving brick for road construction.

Advances in manufacturing methods and processes vitally affecting railway and highway transportation, the production of electric current for light and power purposes, and the problem of avoiding corrosion of iron and steel among many other subjects, all based on scientific research since the last gathering of the organization, will be discussed by the delegates who will come from every section of the United States to attend the meeting.

Lodge to Receive Flag Gompers Had

An American flag, the gift of the late Samuel Gompers, will be presented to Dawson lodge, No. 16, F. A. A. M., at a meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the New Masonic temple. Henry Gompers, son of the former labor leader, is master of Dawson lodge. The Rev. E. I. B. Phillips, rector of Epiphany Episcopal church, will be the principal speaker at the presentation.

Milton Strasburger will present the flag. Miss Violet Pierson will recite "Old Glory." Patriotic selections will be rendered by W. F. Sawyer and Fred East.

DISTRICT PASTORS COME TO DEFENSE OF MODERN YOUTH

Clergy, in Children's Day Sermons, Praise Standards of Present Generation.

CELEBRATIONS HELD BY SUNDAY SCHOOLS

Greater Temptations in Life Cited as Facing Child of Today.

That the modern child, although confronted with greater temptations, is making more out of life than children of past generations, was the answer made yesterday by Washington clergymen in the course of Children's day services, to those who would throw obloquy on the efforts of the rising generation.

The Rev. Joseph T. Herson, pastor of the Hamline Methodist Episcopal church, speaking last night, included both the boy and his playmate, the flapper, in his eulogy of the younger set. He expressed the view that both have more goodness of heart, more sincerity, more truthfulness and nobility than their counterparts of other days. He pointed out that the young people of today were confronted with more temptations making it more difficult to maintain the same standard of conduct followed by our parents when they were children.

Children Give Play.

Children of the Hamline church presented a play entitled "Pierrot Lights the Torch," preceding the pastor's sermon. It was directed by W. R. Schmucker, who is in charge of the Sunday school.

Dana McCutcheon Dawes and Virginia Dawes, children of the Vice President and Mrs. Dawes, were presented with diplomas by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, at the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, for perfect attendance at Sunday school during the last year. Eleven other children of the class were similarly honored. The sacrament of infant baptism was administered to three babies, giving added significance to Children's day.

The pastor spoke on "Flying Kites." Like living, it seems a simple pastime when the winds are fair, but storms bring stress and a test of endurance just as in the case in life, he said. Opposing winds, just as complex conditions in life, makes kite flying an art indeed, the Rev. Mr. Sizoo pointed out.

An impromptu playlet by children of the junior department and special children's songs were sandwiched in with the morning service in recognition of the child's day anniversary.

Church Neglecting Boy.

"The Lad at the Door of the Temple," was the topic of the sermon preached by the Rev. Newton Mercer Simonds, pastor of the Highland Baptist church. "If the child stands at the door of commerce or at the door of education, we know what to do with him," the pastor asserted, "but what does the church do when he stands at the portals of the house of worship?"

The pastor pointed out that in the Sunday schools the number of boys and girls were about equal while in church the women far outnumbered the men. He construed that condition to mean that the church ignored the boy. "That answers the question as to the attitude of the church toward the boy standing at its doors," he said. Recitations by the children of the Sunday school class preceded the sermon.

Children in the beginners and primary departments of the Temple Baptist church participated in a pageant staged before the morning service by the junior department. The Rev. T. O. Jones preached last night on "The Constraint of Love." Sermons on the significance of children's day were also preached by the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris pastor of the Foundry Methodist Episcopal church, and the Rev. Henry Vieth, of St. Louis, Mo., promotion secretary of the Evangelical Synod of North America, also spoke at the Concordia Lutheran Evangelical church, at Twentieth and G streets northwest.

Boys Escape School Clad in Night Clothes

Attired only in nightgowns, two negro youths succeeded in eluding their guard at the National Training School for Boys early yesterday morning and escaped through a window. One of the fugitives, Donald Holley, 17 years old, 48 Pierce street northwest, was captured a few hours later in the woods near Ivy City by policemen C. H. Cowen and J. H. Murphy, of the Twelfth precinct. He had lost his night robe.

The other fugitive, Grant Mitchell, 17 years old, 907 New Hampshire avenue northwest, who left his companion when he lost his attire, is still being sought. They escaped shortly after 1 o'clock.

Boys Camp to Open.

The Boys' club camp at Mt. Victoria, Md., will open Tuesday, June 22, it was announced yesterday. F. V. Thompson, superintendent of the club, will be at the clubhouse, 230 C street northwest, every evening for the next two weeks to consult with parents and boys regarding attendance at the camp.

32 ST. DOMINIC'S GRADUATES GIVEN SCHOOL DIPLOMAS

The Rev. J. A. Cowan, Prefect, Awards Certificates and Makes Address.

RELY ON PRAYER, SAYS PASTOR TO STUDENTS

Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament Is Celebrated at Exercises.

Ten students of the commercial class and 22 students of the eighth grade of St. Dominic's school were awarded diplomas last night when graduation exercises were held in St. Dominic's church, Sixth and E streets southwest.

The Rev. J. A. Cowan, prefect of the school, awarded the diplomas. The commercial school graduates wore pale green gowns and gold headbands, the colors of the class. The grammar school girl graduates wore white. The graduates received congratulations at 7:30 o'clock yesterday when their mass was celebrated.

Father Cowan delivered the sermon to the graduates charging them that in choosing their vocation, whether it be for secular, religious, matrimonial or single life to consult their parents and priest and rely upon prayer for guidance.

Celebrate Benediction.

He also celebrated benediction of the blessed sacrament, at which the Rev. J. J. Sullivan was deacon and the Rev. J. Callaghan was subdeacon. A musical program included Mary Rich, violinist, and Stephen Laut and Agnes Whelan, soloists. Joseph Connors, Bernard Greene and Joseph Marsden acted as ushers.
